

U.S. to construct $5 billion antimissile defense perimeter

Convention price tag mounting

CHICAGO (AP)—Producing and policing the 1968 Democratic National Convention will add up to a lot of money — much of it from taxpayers.

John Meek, coordinator of the convention, said Thursday the cost to the party has not been calculated.

James C. Worthing, chairman of the nonpartisan committee which negotiated the agreement to hold the sessions in Chicago, said his group gave $750,000 in cash to the Democratic National Convention Committee.

In addition, he said, his group provided services which amounted to the equivalent of $160,000. This included use of the convention hall and a considerable number of hotel rooms occupied in advance by the staff preparing for the big show.

Worthing recalled that the Republicans received a little more than half as much — $400,000 — when they selected Chicago for their 1960 convention.

The International Amphitheatre, where the Democrats met last week, charged the party $1 a day (one dollar) for 18 days for use of the hall. Merton Thayer, manager of the huge building, said rental at going rates would have come to well over $100,000.

In addition, he said, the amphitheatre completed a $2 million improvement program before the convention. It included additional air conditioning, a resurfacing of part of the amphitheatre's area and expansion of parking space.

Brig. Gen. Harold Patton, assistant adjutant of the Illinois National Guard, said use of guardsmen cost the taxpayers $75,000 a day. A total of 5,500 troops were on duty for a week. That ran the cost to $529,200.

Pierce J. Fleming, deputy police superintendent, said damage to police equipment would exceed $12,000. That included damage to 73 police cars and 38 helmets.

A police department spokesman said there has been no decision thus far on overtime compensation for policemen. A majority of the force of 10,000 policemen was on duty 12 hours a day convention week.

Fire Commissioner Robert Quinn said there has been no decision yet on overtime for firemen. He said 4,850 firemen were on duty two extra days.

About 7,000 federal troops were on standby duty for a week at the Glenview Naval Air Station and O'Hare International Airport.

Mac's name may be put on ballot

NEW YORK (AP)—Die-hard backers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for president maneuvered Thursday to give his supporters in at least 12 states a chance to vote for him in November.

In two of the states, Indiana and Iowa, their efforts appeared doomed to failure by the Minnesota Democrat's refusal to let his name appear on the ballot.

The others were Minnesota, Tennessee, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, Arizona, Florida, Delaware, Nebraska and California. In several of these states the legality of the pro-McCarthy move was under question.

McCarthy has declared that he declines to be a fourth party candidate for president and will ask for the withdrawal of his name in states where the granting of such a request is mandatory. This is the rule in Iowa and Indiana.

In the senator's home state, a group of University of Minnesota law students collected the necessary 2,000 signatures to put McCarthy on the ballot with Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York City as a running mate.

Biafrans still starve

Mercy airlift nears doom

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Plans for a daylight mercy airlift to starving civilians in secessionist Biafra verged on collapse Thursday amid controversy over where Red Cross planes could land supplies.

Federal troops reported they had raised the Nigerian flag over Abuja, the largest of three towns held by the rebels. Biafra acknowledged federal forces had broken through Abuja's defenses.

Diplomatic sources here said no Red Cross planes took off as had been scheduled Thursday from Fernando Po, the Spanish island off the eastern Nigeria coast where relief supplies are stockpiled.

Nigeria's military government had agreed to allow Red Cross transports to shuttle food and medicine from the island to a Biafran airstrip, called Annabelle, for 10 days starting Thursday. The federal authorities had previously threatened to shoot down planes flying into Biafra.

Biafra welcomed the agreement, but broadcast a proposal Thursday that the Red Cross planes land instead at Uturu, a village near Obilagiri airstrip in central Biafra. The Nigerians have rejected Obilagiri as a landing spot because it would block the advance of federal troops on the headquarters of Biafra's leader, Lt. Col. C. Odumgwu Ojukwu, 25 miles from the airstrip.

"We will not change our stand," a Nigerian military spokesman said of the latest Biafran proposal.

August Lindt, International Red Cross coordinator for West Africa, was reported in Biafra trying to talk Biafran leaders into accepting the Nigerian proposal.

Instant money machine

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—An instant money machine began dispensing $50 bills like packaged peanuts Thursday outside a Miami bank.

The machine is an automatic credit card loan system to provide individuals up to $300 cash day or night seven days a week.

A white plastic card, magnetically coded, is inserted in a slot of the seven-foot gray box. Inside the machine, a computer reads the card. A hum from the works sounds and a white envelope containing $50 rolls from another slot.

If the customer wants $50 more he deposits another card. The cards are kept by the bank until the loan is paid, for up to a year.

The machine, a Japanese product which the bank claimed was the first of its kind in North America, was loaded with $2,500 in crisp fifties, bolted to concrete and wired to a noisy alarm Thursday.

Then Capital National Bank began issuing the first of 2,000 cards. The limit is six to a customer.

"Some people don't like to carry money and others just don't seem to have cash when they need it," said Theodore Davis, president of the bank and holder of card 00001. "I used to carry a $50 bill in my wallet but now I'll have the card. A lot of people don't like to have cash for fear somebody will be tempted to rob them or roll them in the gutter."

"The bank wanted to get into this to recruit new customers and, at 24 per cent interest a year or two per cent a month, it's a good income producer, too," Davis said.

"Of course, if someone got $150 and paid it back the next day, the interest would be just 10 cents," Davis said.

There is no charge until the card is used. If it is lost or stolen the machine can be set to reject it.

"Counterfeiters can't duplicate this card," said Davis.

Senate support fades for Fortas

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson was told by the congressional leadership Thursday that chances for Senate confirmation of his nomination of Abe Fortas to be chief justice are fading.

However, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said "No, I don't think so" when asked by newsmen if Johnson might withdraw the nomination.

Mansfield agreed with Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois that it is doubtful the necessary two-thirds majority can be obtained to crush a threatened filibuster.

"I'd say the opposition has hardened and may well have increased," Mansfield said. He added he had so advised Johnson at a White House meeting of Democratic leaders with the President.

With members of Congress anxious to adjourn as soon as possible before the November elections, Mansfield said time is working against Senate approval.

Mansfield said that with appointments resorting to delaying tactics he didn't know when the committee might act.

But he said that if the nomination is reported to the Senate and runs into a filibuster, he will try at least twice to invoke the debate-limiting cloture rule.

Dirksen reveals threats

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois disclosed Thursday that he was notified by official sources three times in recent months that attempts on his life were planned.

Dirksen, the Senate minority leader, said that "I was supposed to have been assassinated in my office" late last month.

He said the information came from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which assigned agents to him during a trip he made to Illinois the same week the tumultuous Democratic National Convention was under way in Chicago.

Dirksen discussed the reported plans on his life at a news conference while defending measures used by the Chicago police to put down disorder during the Democratic convention.

He said he personally witnessed antiwar demonstrators trying to storm the Conrad Hilton headquarters hotel and said police reaction was proportionate to the provocation.

Dirksen recalled statements by Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago that plots to assassinate principal figures at the convention had been uncovered.

Dirksen said that with appointments resorting to delaying tactics he didn't know when the committee might act.

But he said that if the nomination is reported to the Senate and runs into a filibuster, he will try at least twice to invoke the debate-limiting cloture rule.

Czech invasion one cause

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford announced Thursday firm plans to go ahead with building an antimissile shield and to maintain "significant" forces in Europe to face up to the sharpening Soviet threat.

In a relatively hard-line speech, the defense chief took note of the Russian-led invasion of Czechoslovakia and declared: "The developments of these last few days confirm the fact that, when and if we negotiate, safety and success demand that we negotiate from strength."

Speaking at a National Press Club luncheon, he said he is making the controversial Sentinel antiballistic missile system exempt from budget cuts recently ordered by Congress. The system carries a $5 billion price tag.

For the most part Vietnam took a back seat in Clifford's comments but he said in answer to questions he thinks the long expected third enemy offensive may now be underway.

But Clifford said the battlefield commanders are equipped to cope with the new offensive. "Militarily," he said, "we are in a substantially better position today than we were a year ago."

As for the Paris peace negotiations Clifford said: "If we stay with it, and work with it, and continue to have the type of military results we are having in Vietnam, I believe we will begin to get progress in Paris."

Clifford declined to confirm reports that the Soviet Union has developed multiple warheads for its nuclear missiles but said the United States is forging such a weapon because "a position of substantial strength is essential and is the best position from which we can negotiate agreements that may make the threat of nuclear war increasingly remote."

Clifford praised the North Atlantic Treaty Organization as a major factor in maintaining the peace in Europe.

"The events of the past couple of weeks, I submit, have clearly demonstrated that a significant American military presence in Western Europe is still needed," he said.

Steps had been taken to cut down on the U.S. forces in Europe before the Soviet move into Czechoslovakia reversed this.

In response to questions Clifford defended the performance of intelligence experts who analyzed Soviet movements before the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Clifford said that on the day of the Soviet invasion President Johnson received intelligence information which said the Soviets had set into motion certain operations that indicated a push into Czechoslovakia. But he said the Soviets had been practicing similar exercises along the Czech border in previous days so that the United States could not be sure this was the real thing.

Teachers' salaries still in dispute

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thousands of school children across the country got another extra day of vacation Thursday as teachers' strikes continued to delay the opening of the fall term.

Meanwhile, in Philadelphia, negotiators for the school board and Philadelphia's 12,500 public school teachers agreed Thursday on a new two-year contract providing pay hikes averaging $900 per year. The contract was ratified within two hours by a voice vote.

In Michigan, where school was scheduled to open earlier this week, 12 school districts serving almost 68,000 children were closed Thursday. Agreement in one district was reached early Thursday and classes were scheduled to open today. Teachers in 35 other Michigan districts reported for work while contract negotiations continued.

Teachers in East Haven, Conn., did not report Thursday, for the second straight day, and were not expected to show up today. The dispute involves more than 200 teachers in 14 public schools serving 6,000 students.

In nearby Darien, Conn., however, some 330 teachers in 10 public schools reported Thursday after a compromise salary figure was recommended at an arbitration session. About 5,200 students were affected by the walkout Wednesday.

More than 75 per cent of the teachers in Cumberland, R.I., boycotted classes again Thursday, claiming they were not striking, but were attending an "informational meeting."

As on Wednesday, another 60 teachers reported for work, but students who showed up in Cumberland's 13 public schools were dismissed early because normal schedules could not be maintained. Later, an injunction was issued in Superior Court directing the teachers to report for work today.

There were threatened strikes in two of the nation's largest school systems Philadelphia and New York.

The Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO and the Board of Education, continued negotiating Thursday and teachers were scheduled to vote Thursday afternoon on whether to strike today — the opening day of the fall term.

Lackawanna vote count upheld by state court

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality Thursday of absentee voting laws in two cases from Lackawanna and York counties.

The court's ruling upheld the election of a Democratic majority on the Lackawanna County Board of Commissioners and paved the way for settlement of a contested 1966 election that has left the 28th District without a state senator for two years.

Challengers in both cases argued it was unconstitutional for the county board of elections to canvass absentee votes. They claimed that was the duty of district election boards.

In the November, 1967 election, Democrat Edward Zipay and Republican Charles R. Harte and Samuel C. Cali polled the most votes for the Lackawanna County Commissioners. Trailing was Democrat Patrick Melody.

According to the Supreme Court opinion, however, Harte and Cali feared absentee votes might elect Melody. They appealed first to the County Board of Elections and Common Pleas court to have the counting of civilian absentee ballots by the county board declared unconstitutional.

The votes were counted and Melody was elected over Cali, giving the board a Democratic majority.

Harte and Cali appealed to the Supreme Court. They claimed 1963 legislation empowering the county board to canvass the absentee vote conflicted with the state constitution, which said district boards should do the counting.

In the York County election, Republican Sen. Robert O. Beers was opposed by Democrat Henry B. Leader, brother of former Gov. George Leader.

After the election Leader appeared before the York County Board of Elections. He argued the constitution required absentee ballot counting by district boards, and urged the county board not to count the absentee ballots.

The board refused and tabulated the ballots. Leader appealed to York County Court of Common Pleas, which also ruled against him. He then appealed to the Supreme Court and the election was left hanging, pending its decision by that court.

The Supreme Court, cited the Lackawanna County case Thursday in upholding the right of the county board to canvass the absentee ballots.

It said the district board's function "is strictly a one-day operation" while the county board is a continuing body. "In the face, therefore, of the impossibility of district boards canvassing the absentee ballots during their ephemeral existence," wrote Justice Michael Musmanno, "it would be unfair, unreasonable and unjust to disfranchise the absentee voters."

Justice Musmanno wrote both opinions.

Saigon defense tested

Cong trap feared

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops tried to lure allied forces out from their defense of Saigon Thursday, perhaps in prelude to a large-scale enemy drive against the capital.

U.S. intelligence sources said the earliest the enemy could mount an attack against the capital was mid-September, provided it scored successes over allied forces in the outlying areas.

The U.S. Command announced that American combat casualties soared last week to the highest level in the past three months. It said 408 American troops were killed and 2,513 were wounded in the second week of fighting that followed a two-month lull in the ground war.

Enemy forces tried unsuccessfully to throw the allied defense of Saigon off balance when they shattered the ground war lull Aug. 18 with heavy offensive along the Cambodian border northwest of the capital. Intelligence officers say the enemy hoped to force the allies into pulling troops out of the Saigon defense ring.

More than 2,000 American and South Vietnamese infantrymen launched a drive into the Boi Loi Woods, 30 miles northwest of Saigon, Thursday, in search of an enemy force believed bent on upsetting the allies' defenses.

First reports said there was no contact with the enemy force, made up of elements of two regiments from the Viet Cong's 5th Division. The enemy could use the woods as a springboard for attacks on allied installations and towns along the defensive line leading to Saigon. These include the 25th Infantry Division headquarters at Cu Chi.

U.S. B52 bombers dumped tons of explosives on the positions of two North Vietnamese regiments reported to have moved from jungle hideaways along the Cambodian border to within 38 miles of Saigon. The bombers also struck at the enemy regiments' ammunition and rice stores.

Intelligence officers said the North Vietnamese forces were spreading out and pushing southward along the Song Be River. They were expected to attack Phu Cuong, a provincial capital, Tan Uyen and Ben Cat, district headquarters towns, and Lai Khe, headquarters of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division.

The U.S. Navy reported two of its patrol boats broke up a Viet Cong rocket attack Wednesday on a convoy of five merchant ships in the Mekong Delta, 70 miles southwest of Saigon. The cargo vessel Heaven Dragon of Hong Kong was the target of rocket grenades and automatic weapons fire, the Navy said, but damage to the ship was not reported. Four other vessels in the convoy were not hit.

Dissent via lawlessness gets no Nixon sympathy

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Richard M. Nixon carried his presidential campaign into California Thursday, asserting that a corps of "highly trained specialists" is needed to handle the kind of violence that erupted in Chicago last week.

Law and order, most political analysts agree, has become the hottest issue in this presidential election.

Labor rejects British 'austerity'

BLACKPOOL, England (AP) — British trade unions, by an overwhelming vote served notice on Prime Minister Harold Wilson Thursday that they want no part of his austerity policy of curbing wages and prices.

The 7-1 vote at the 100th annual convention of the Trades Union Congress, TUC, was against the heart of the Labor government's entire program for economic recovery. It raised the specter of widespread strife on the industrial front and dire trouble for Wilson on the political level.

A concerted attack on Wilson and his policies is almost certain then, led by left-wing Laborite legislators as well as by some of the 134 TUC-committed lawmakers.

Battleship off for Vietnam

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Battleship USS New Jersey left Thursday for Vietnam to bombard shore batteries with its nine 16-inch guns.

The giant veteran of World War II and the Korean War will stop in Hawaii and the Philip-

Nixon flew to his native state from Chicago where he was repeatedly questioned about the disorders during the Democratic National Convention. He said that, given the same conditions of confrontation, the violence "could have occurred in any other city." But the GOP presidential candidate added:

"As we look at the provocation (in Chicago) I cannot have sympathy for provocation that went beyond the bounds of peaceful dissent.

"I believe that any system of government that provides the means for peaceful change—that there is no cause that justifies the use of violence or lawlessness.

"He said he would develop his position on the problem of dissent versus lawlessness more fully as his campaign moves along.

"Looking to the future," Nixon said, "I do know that across this nation we need highly trained specialists to handle these explosive situations."

Czechs' leaders seek normalcy

PRAGUE (AP) — Government leaders met Thursday to discuss measures needed to bring Czechoslovakia back to as normal conditions as possible under the Soviet bloc occupation.

No details were disclosed, but the session coincided with reports that Soviet leaders were meeting in Moscow. These accounts said the Moscow meeting could prove significant to Czechoslovakia's future course.

Despite the Soviet crackdown on Czechoslovakia's liberalized policy of free speech and an uncensored press, signs persisted that the public and some leaders still are defying the occupation forces.

Expenses, revenues tabulated for fairs

By FRED WALTER
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — The fairgrounds for the area's three fairs and farm shows are bleak now in comparison to this year's most active and successful rural community shows. The exhibitors and visitors are waiting for next year, but this year's fair officials must still maintain the habit of tabulating the expenses and revenues.

George Dorshimer

Dorshimer enters Penn State

BRODHEADSVILLE — George N. Dorshimer, a 1968 graduate of Pleasant Valley High School, has entered the University of Pennsylvania as a freshman engineering student. The son of Mrs. Nevin E. Dorshimer of Brodheadsville, George was a member of the Pleasant Valley High School Band, the National Honor Society and participated in varsity baseball and basketball. He received a letter of commendation from the National Merit Corporation and was valedictorian of the Class of 1968.

Portland council turns down petition

PORTLAND — A petition signed by nearly 70 Portland residents objecting to the removal of a four-way stop sign within the borough, was rejected Tuesday night by the Borough Council.

Residents of the Main Street and Pennsylvania Avenue section had circulated a petition to have the stop sign re-installed due to what was termed hazardous traffic conditions.

The council, however, indicated that the stop sign had been a nuisance and rejected its installation.

The sign was taken down about two months ago and had originally been erected four years ago.

Mrs. Kay Newbaker, who was instrumental in circulating the petition amongst area residents, said Wednesday that conditions are hazardous without the stop sign since youngsters have to walk to school.

She said there is no crossing guard at the intersection, but added there was a patrol by the school itself.

Indications were, Mrs. Newbaker said, that the council may call a special session to discuss the situation with area residents.

Williams leads commission

MATAMORAS — James Williams of Matamoras was appointed chairman of the newly created Recreation Commission. He will serve a five year term.

Mrs. Nancy Vacci was named secretary for a two year term.

Borough Councilmen were told that Dr. Dale Tyson, Jr., superintendent of Delaware Valley Schools, and Adolph Maruszewski, vice president of Kolmar Laboratories, Inc. had requested appointments to the Commission as advisors.

Monroe County's own West End Fair in its 47th showing this year provided interests for more than 20,000 fair-goers of all ages during its three-day run at the Gilbert fairgrounds.

The West End Fair Association is set up with five elected fair officials, non-salaried under a governing body of a board of directors to which membership is limited to the six townships: Chestnut Hill, Eldred, Hamilton, Ross, Polk and Jackson.

Larry Krome, secretary, said that premium proceeds are still being tabulated besides a number of miscellaneous bills that must also be paid out before final financial status is determined.

All profits will stay within the fair association and funds will either be invested for future use, for next year's fair program, for general maintenance and improvement of the fairgrounds throughout the year.

Krome explained that there will be immediate expenses in closing all the buildings. Most of the labor is also paid by the association.

"Although it's set up like a corporation, everything is actually community owned," Krome said.

"We must also make a financial report to the state department of agriculture," Krome said, "who will audit our report for their reimbursement on premium proceeds paid out to agricultural exhibitors."

The State each year, following their audit, will pay normally up to 50 per cent for legitimate premiums, according to classification of the individual fair. This reimbursement is published by the state after payment of all premiums is made by each fair by March 15.

Blue Valley success

The Blue Valley Farm Show in Northampton County, in its 23rd year entertained some 30,000 persons with numerous improvements and additions on the show grounds between Pen Argyl and Bangor. Its organization stems from one source, the Bangor Exchange Club, who maintains a separate roster of farm show officers and board of directors.

Arthur Baker, president of this year's farm show, said that following final tabulations, the remaining funds will be used for promoting agriculture in the area by sponsoring such events for students of vocational agriculture in the county throughout the year.

Improvements for next year are also planned from this year's profits, such as a new heating system in the main exhibit building, dropping the ceiling for a new amplification system. Last year's funds were used to resurface the driveway and parking area.

"Premium proceeds this year amounted to $2,642," Baker said, "compared to more than $2,200 paid out last year. Eventually the fair will have to go county-wide with more open classes, perhaps in another three to five years," Baker noted.

Income gain

Baker added, "This year we're way ahead both in income and prices. Being a member of the Pennsylvania State Fair Association, the farm show also has its accounts audited for reimbursement."

The Green-Dreher-Sterling Community Fair, in its 51st year of showing, attracted more than 20,000 persons in the Wayne County area according to its president, Robert Staph.

Staph explained that "we are strictly a community institution" and differ from the usual corporate groups.

"It was a highly successful fair and better than last year," Staph said.

"This year's profits will be shared by 11 organizations who help to back up the community affair and it is planned that additional land area be purchased for more parking space and a permanent building for cattle," Staph said.

General revenues or net profits from the three fair operations were not disclosed by any of the fair officials.

Surplus food distribution dates set

STROUDSBURG — Surplus Foods will be distributed at the regular center, 804 Main St. rear, on Tuesday and Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Any eligible family who did not re-certify in August may do so in September. All new families who are eligible may also sign up and receive food during this distribution.

Many new foods will be distributed such as prune juice, evaporated milk, canned tomatoes, scrambled egg mix and corn syrup. These foods plus the regular staple foods will make a total of 17 foods to be distributed.

Fair officials from the West End Fair Association are currently tabulating the final premium proceeds and payment of many operating expenses from this year's fair showing. Profits will be invested for future use and for maintaining and improvements. From the left are, Floyd C. Altomose, vice president; Florence Dorshimer, treasurer and Larry A. Krome, secretary.

Dry weather hinders farm crop growth, fall plowing

HARRISBURG — Continued dry weather is still slowing crop growth and hindering fall plowing operations in most areas of the State according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service survey for the week ending Sept. 2.

Oats harvest and straw baling continued in extreme northern counties while haymaking, plowing and harvest of fruit and vegetables were active in other areas.

Soil moisture supplies are reported as short in nearly all sections of the State with the exception of some northern and western areas where a near normal supply was reported.

Wells Below Level

The August report of observed well water levels for 30 wells throughout the state showed 24 wells were below July levels and 23 were down from a year earlier.

Although corn continues to look good in southeastern areas of the state, the crop in many other sections is suffering from lack of soil moisture. The corn is short and withered in many central and western counties with doubt as to whether it will mature.

Weather conditions during the week were favorable for hay-making but the dry weather has limited regrowth to such an extent that third cuttings are light and little hay is being made. Many farmers continue to green chop hay to supplement their dried-up pastures with hay being fed in barns.

Pastures are short and brown in most sections of the state with below normal amounts of feed being obtained.

Potatoes Critical

Extremely hot weather a couple of weeks ago struck potatoes during the critical sizing period and caused some wilting of vines and limiting sizing. Set and quality is good but yields may be smaller than previous expectations because of lack of size.

Cooler weather last week has pushed coloring of apples along rapidly. Sizing has progressed slowly in most areas because of dry weather with only limited cracking. Mites appear to be a problem in central and northern counties.

Condition of vegetables crops varies across the state with crops in good condition in the western counties particularly where irrigated. Sweet corn harvest progresses with yields and quality mostly good to very good.

Agriculture products prices drop 3 per cent

HARRISBURG — Prices received by Pennsylvania farmers in mid-August for agricultural products declined three percent from the previous mid-month according to the State crop reporting service. Contributing most to the decline were lower prices for all crops except fruit which was unchanged and partially offsetting the decline were higher prices for dairy and poultry products.

Eggs, selling for 37 cents a dozen were one cent above the previous month and four cents above a year ago. Turkeys were up a cent while broilers were down a cent.

The preliminary estimate of August milk price at $5.85 was 15 cents over the previous month and 10 cents above

August last year.

Corn at $1.14 was down two cents; wheat at $1.10 was down one cent and rye at 94 cents was down one cent. Alfalfa hay was unchanged at $28.00 while all hay price increased 50 cents to $25.00.

Two couples plan weddings

STROUDSBURG — The following couples applied for marriage licenses Wednesday in the Monroe County Courthouse:

Donald McGuckian, 38, Staten Island, N.Y., and Doris R. Burns, 42, Woodbridge, N.J.; and LeRoy Stumpp, 18, 867 White Street, Stroudsburg, and Julianna C. Possinger, 17, 497 Stokes Ave., East Stroudsburg.

Slate Belt Grange plans drum corps merge

BANGOR — Two slate championship drum and bugle corps from the Slate Belt merged to form one single drum and bugle corps.

The merged groups are the Blue Eagles Senior Drum and Bugle Corps, sponsored by the American Legion Post, 724 of Wind Gap and the yellow Jackets Drum and Bugle Corps, sponsored by the American Legion Post, 378 of Bangor.

The combined corps made its debut during the Labor Day parade in Pen Argyl.

The Blue Eagles were Pennsylvania Class C champions in 1965 and 1966 while the Yellow Jackets were Class B champions in 1967 and 1968.

The combined corps is seeking a new name and persons who have a name suggestion should contact any corps member. Anyone interested in joining the corps should contact Joseph Pacovich at 863-5192 or Elmer Boyd at 253-1924.

Grange plans special meet

BRODHEADSVILLE — The Mineola Grange will conduct an open program 8 p.m. Monday in the West End Fire Hall, Brodheadsville.

The program will consist of a 30-minute film on financial planning including an explanation on taxes, wills and attorneys.

Arlo Brennan of Jim Thorpe, will present the program.

REMEMBER DAVID AND GOLIATH? GEORGE WASHINGTON AT VALLEY FORGE? LUCKY LINDY CROSSIN THE ATLANTIC?

They didn't stand a chance, did they?

But David, Washington and Lindy beat back the odds and won the fight!

What About Pete O'Brien?

Does He Stand A Chance?

Atty. Peter O'Brien

Here is what a leading area politician said about Pete's opponent in the 139th District:

"Why he won't even have to step down off his front porch. He can sit there from now until election day and he'll still come up with a huge majority."

Goliath was a shoo-in over David. But David brought the brute down with just a singlet! Washington's ragtag troops couldn't stand up against the crack British regulars. But they did, and went on to win the war that gave us "A" for America. Who ever thought Lucky Lindy could fly non-stop across the Atlantic? But he made it, all by himself, against the greatest odds.

Sure PETE O'BRIEN is an underdog. But History holds a long list of successful underdogs.

Schools headed for more building

A taxpayer in the Stroudsburg School District gets the feeling his school directors are trying to tell him something when he reads that Morey School is expanding into an annex at St. John's Lutheran Church.

About 145 children, the entire first and second grades at Morey, will be quartered at least for this year in classrooms in the church's Christian Education Building.

The school supervisors point out that each of the classes at St. John's will be split three ways leaving something less than 30 in each room. And by getting the first two grades out of Morey, there are four additional classrooms there that will be used to split the remaining four grades (third through sixth) into three groups of less than 30.

Each class at Morey had been divided only in half before and each room had 35 or more pupils. What's more many of the other elementary classes throughout the district had been edging up to beyond 30 pupils per room. Some of these over-crowded situations are being improved by switching students to the Morey School and annex where the extra space is being provided.

Obviously this is not a perfect answer. Some pupils are traveling an extra long bus route to school and it would be better for the children, the teachers and the administrators if all elementary classes were back under one roof. But in evaluating the debits with the credits, the directors opted for this system.

What they are telling us, of course, is that to overcome the debits the answer is further building and specifically that money and land be acquired to put up a "middle school" for fifth through eighth grades. The present elementary schools would then handle students only to the fourth grade and have the room many already need to reduce classes to workable size.

If you don't think you're going to like it, now's the time to object but not liking it isn't enough in itself; you'll have to have an alternate plan. In any case buildings will have to go up and so will costs.

Miss America show out-shines its rivals

Not the most beautiful, not the most talented and not with the most poise and personality but none-the-less, the winner.

That's about the status of the Miss America who will be picked tomorrow night at the annual Atlantic City pageant. In the majority opinion of the judges, the queen will have the most of all but not necessarily the best of any.

It's a good show. The pageant people long ago decreed that it wouldn't be "just another beauty contest" with girls in skimpy swim suits assessed by leering judges. Attractiveness, they wisely determined, was more than a pretty face and body although they remain the logical starting spots.

The personality phase is expected to shine through the days of rehearsals and interviews, the poise appear in the spotlight on stage and the talent determine the poise and personality while showing off the beauty. Beyond that the talent gives some substance to a television show that is produced almost entirely on the basis of suspense.

Trying to guess with the judges while picking a favorite of your own is an appeal that the TV people say annually attracts one of the biggest single night audiences to a show.

So many other beauty-type pageants have sprung up to take advantage of the TV appeal that the Atlantic City bloom is slightly faded; still it is the original and the best of the pretty bunch.

Light side With Gene Brown

Hot Weather Story making rounds:

An ice cream salesman was crossing the Sahara desert on a used camel he had bought in Alexandria at a special sale. In the middle of the desert, the camel stopped, stretched out and refused to budge. It was 110 in the shade, and the driver was quite worried. He spied a passing caravan, however, and was told there was a camel garage about 12 miles east in the sandy waste. Members of the caravan promised to send out a camel mechanic.

Three hours and many hot degrees later, the mechanic put in an appearance. He checked out the running gear of the camel, examined its eyes, asked it to say "Ah." Finally he walked around to the side of the camel, and gave it a swift kick in the ribs. "Burr!" went the camel, "Just as I suspected," said the camel mechanic. "Vapor lock."

Once more we realize that nothing is really new. They tell us that schoolboys 60 years ago gleefully inscribed in their notebooks the Latin motto, "Sic et Tunc."

Launching pad

Don MacLean

Ah, so--no noise

WASHINGTON — Many times over the years various congressmen have made resounding speeches on the subject of noise. (At this writing, all have been against it, leaving a splendid opening for some congressman to get his name in the papers by coming out in favor of noise. In this town, almost anything can find a champion.)

Despite all the noise about noise, we have done very little about it. Yet, everyone knows that too much noise can hurt your ears, fray your nerves and even stunt your growth. However, jets continue to roar; air drills continue to pound; and riveters continue to, well, rive.

In contrast to the U.S.'s no-win policy, in the war on noise, there is the aggressive campaign launched by the Japanese.

Take the case of Prof. Takenosuke Onda, of Nihon University. He has developed the noiseless pile driver. (At this point, regular readers of this column may think that once again I am kidding. As it happens, this time I am not.) He worked on it for years and recently demonstrated it in Tokyo to the amazement of all.

Now, your ordinary pile driver works like this: A heavy weight is pulled to the top of a crane and then dropped on the head of a pile. This is effective but noisy, and has not been improved upon for centuries.

The professor's pile driver works like this: A iron pole, slightly larger at the bottom than at the top, is attached to the head of the pile. A huge weight, with a hole in the center, is dropped down the pole until it stops. The energy of its fall is transmitted to the pile, but not directly. No noise; but the pile is driven. So clever, the Japanese.

The Scott Report

Wallace worries labor

WASHINGTON — American labor is going to open its pocketbook for Hubert Humphrey and will spend between $20 and $25 million in a drive to elect him and other Democrats.

That's the estimate of some of the new hard-hitting four-man committee of labor leaders selected in Chicago to raise the millions needed by the massive union federation's Committee on Political Education (COPE).

This new political action high command is made up of the United Steel Workers' I. W. Abel, Communication Workers' Joseph Beirne, the Seafarers' Paul Hall, and AFL-CIO President George Meany and Aide Joseph Keenan.

In a political sense, their Chicago meeting at the Democratic National Convention last week was a convention within a convention. While working to obtain the nomination for Humphrey, the labor leaders hammered out strategy on how to keep labor from splintering its support in the November election.

Of the $20 to $25 million, approximately $8 million will be raised and spent in cash — directly in political contributions to Humphrey's campaign committees and Democratic running mates all the way down the congressional line.

Quick pledges

There was a meeting, for example, of 20 union chiefs with AFL-CIO President George Meany recently. In a few hours, after a discussion of the hole left by Walter Reuther's refusal to pay the auto union's large annual COPE quota, the union leaders pledged more than a half million dollars.

But that is only the starter. The four-man labor committee had divided up the federation's big unions and will seek a quota from each for the political cash kitty.

In their Chicago meetings, the labor leaders appeared to be more concerned about the "George Wallace Threat" to Humphrey in key industrial centers than Republican Presidential Candidate Richard Nixon.

Another thing they've done, as the Japanese Embassy informed me rather smugly, is place noise meters all over. Electric lights give simple readings and enable the public to see what causes the most noise. Placed near a factory, for instance, folks quickly learn how guilty it is of ignoring their right to peace.

And then there is the "Noise Patrol." This consists of government policemen who, traveling around with noise meters, give tickets and warnings to those who make noise unnecessarily. So far, no crying babies have been ticketed, but they have gotten a couple of kids with drums.

A recent Embassy report said this: "The government has ear-marked $500,000 for sound-absorbing facilities this year." Ah, so, a Japanese pun.)

MICROSCOOPS

Humphrey and Nixon agree on why we're in Vietnam. Now, if only one of them knew how we could WIN in Vietnam.

The Yippies were surprised in Chicago—that was the first time a riot wasn't fun.

From now on maybe we ought to hold the conventions sometime when school isn't out.

It's amazing, the war in Chicago knocked the war in Vietnam off the front pages. And the war in Chicago was ABOUT the war in Vietnam.

Gee, the Democrats ran their convention almost like they've run the country for the last eight years.

The laborites aren't afraid that Wallace and his Third Party might win in November. They see him as a dangerous "spoiler" making inroads into the union vote that Vice President Humphrey must have to win. For instance:

Recently, a New Jersey local of the United Auto Workers pulled members on presidential preference and Wallace was the big winner, with 420 votes. Nixon was second with 92; and Humphrey and other candidates trailed further behind.

In another UAW local in the same area, officers reported "heavy support" for Wallace. In both locals, white UAW unionists have become concerned about the influx of Negroes and Puerto Ricans into plant jobs.

At Willow Springs, Illinois, UAW unionists voted 315 for Wallace, 33 for Nixon and 25 for Humphrey. Local officials said the "small vote" in the 2,900-member group's secret ballot didn't reflect "true sentiment" there, but pro-Wallace forces said it does.

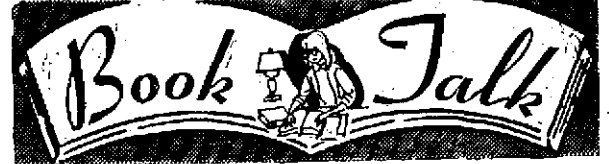

Pennsylvania support

In Pennsylvania, campaign appearances by Wallace in Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, and other heavy-industry areas brought out crowds, with a strong representation of middle-income trade unionists. When Wallace said that steelworkers are "getting sick and tired of the riots throughout the country," he was cheered.

Pro-Humphrey labor officials from other areas of the country in the past month have sent a series of warnings to AFL-CIO leaders here that Wallace is making big inroads among their union members.

In Chicago last week, Al Barkan, Director of COPE, called on delegates at a steelworkers convention to repudiate "phony issues" dramatized by Wallace.

He warned that "we're going to have to campaign hard and convince our people to vote on a basis of sound labor principles and programs and not passion or bias."

Culture in the market place

THE CULTURE CULTURES. By Alan Levy. Putnam, $6.95.

The author's stance is that much of the so-called cultural explosion of recent years is phony, mainly because of the mass merchandising techniques used by the entrepreneurs involved. He contends that mass culture is like the emperor's new clothes.

In short, he has deliberately searched out the seamy side of modern America's leisure world.

He starts with some disillusioning details on the way book clubs — particularly the best known one — choose their offerings, and follows that with some would-be writers, writers' conferences and the vanity press.

In his Broadway chapter he concentrates on two aspects which he feels are more detrimental than helpful — the business of conducting theater benefits and the increasing influence of recording companies in the presentation of musicals.

His views of the art market is a quick miscellany of topics — department store art, tax dodges, the danger of fakes and museum chit-chat.

Levy devotes a chapter to criticism (theater, ballet, books, movies, music and art) and deals in personalities almost entirely. He argues that educational television has failed of its purpose and is "black and white and gray all over."

He reports on the lucrative lecture business and cites specific examples of how the system worked in two cities. And he describes what he believes to be the superficiality of conducted tours, citing as an example a trip by a group of Cincinnatians to Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Russia.

Says Levy, the tail wags the dog in too many of our cultural endeavors — meaning the commercial aspect.

The book is a hodge-podge rather than a reasoned report, and often it is simply a gossip collection of recent events. But much of it is interesting behind-the-scenes entertainment.

Mencken in polite society

THE CONSTANT CIRCLE by Sara Mayfield (Delacorte, $8.50): A memoir of the late H. L. Mencken by one of his wife's closest friends. Her portrait of American letter's one-man Blitzkrieg shows him with his best table manners. It is like describing war without mentioning blood.

Younger Americans, busy on the campus barricades, might not remember Mencken. The first three decades of this century he terrorized Prohibitionists, Babbitts, Philistines, clergymen, Rotary Clubs and other enemies of the hour with such invective that Europe hailed him as America's Voltaire and U.S. state legislatures demanded his banishment.

His "constant circle" of inconstant friends and admirers included F. Scott Fitzgerald, Theodore Dreiser, George Jean Nathan, various actresses, Clarence Darrow, college students of the 20s and anyone who disliked Prohibition, presidents and the YMCA.

His Smart Set and American Mercury magazines influenced an age, not only printing the early works of Eugene O'Neill but also Somerset Maugham, James M. Cain, anyone beginning or ending with a literary reputation of import 40 years ago. Mencken led them with a cigar in his mouth, a seidel of pilsener in his hand and a snarl on his lips for fat lady poets and the President of the United States.

But this is the other Mencken who mourned his mother's death, who enjoyed the creature comforts of middle class America, who nursed an ailing wife during a tragically short marriage and made long lists of his own ills including an itch in his mouth and a sore toe. At times, the tiger was gentle. This book rounds out the pretty side of Mencken, clips and polished the claws.

The headier stuff still belongs to the William Manchester biography and, the best, Mencken's own autobiographical ravings.

Canada blows up in print

THE TRAITOR GAME By Dougal McLeish. Houghton Mifflin, $4.95.

Canada's prime minister is assassinated on page 4 of this novel, but that's only a small beginning.

Well before the action is over, there is a major bombing in Ottawa, slaughtering the new prime minister, his cabinet and about half the members of parliament. The story, based on a wild plot to tear the province asunder and establish a dictatorship, is full of gore and murder.

On the side of the good guys is Max Gervais, a wealthy individualist who has suspected ever since the first assassination where the trouble is coming from, but is unable to convince the national authorities in time.

With him is his friend John Lane, who has just been paroled from prison. Max has found proof that John's conviction for robbery had been a frame-up arranged by the powerful figure who is behind the plot for disorder and treason. Accompanied by Max's sister Mary (this is the romantic element), they try to frustrate the undercover activities of the bad guys.

The man who has organized the first assassination and the bombing in parliament — and who keeps trying to murder Max, John and Mary when they keep getting in the way — is a fascist soldier of fortune, backed up by a platoon of hired goons.

This is a very tall tale, with its countless acts of derring-do by the good guys, and its rapid-fire shifts from one scene of violence to along with the action (after all, this is a long with the action (after all, this is summertime fiction, a diversion) you'll find there's seldom a dull moment.

Messy messages from McLuhan

THROUGH THE VANISHING POINT. By Marshall McLuhan and Harley Parker. Harper, $7.50.

Anyone familiar with the McLuhanesque style will recognize it in this volume. Example: "Pastimes are past times."

The authors' stated purpose is "to guide the reader through the sensory mazes evoked by technologies old and new and to explain why, in terms of spatial form in poetry and painting, the Medieval and primitive worlds have so much in common with modern experience."

"Space" is the operative word in whatever it is McLuhan and Parker have in mind, which has something to do with "integral sensory orientation." In McLuhanesque words don't have the same meanings as in everyday speech, so the reader will have to cope with such things as this reference to abstract art: "Visual space is being internalized at the terminus of the visual gradient." And in this book there are many kinds of space — visual, formal, acoustic, kinetic, tactual, visceral, etc.

What seems to be going on here is that there is a relationship between the imagery of painting and the imagery of poetry. So the authors couple 49 paintings or other works of art with 49 excerpts from poetry. The pairings often are bizarre (Dryden and El Greco, Chagall and Dylan Thomas, for example), and the appended notations usually are prime examples of the non sequitur.

In this case, it would seem that McLuhan's "the medium is the message" has been turned into "the message is messy."

Insane is illegal

Is insanity a form or a degree of severity of mental illness?

The term insanity really has no specific medical meaning. Rather it is now a term of legal importance which refers to some form of mental disturbance or derangement. It is also used loosely to describe a mental disorder or psychosis.

The legal application of the word insanity is devoted to those people who are not responsible for their social acts. A person who is incapable of distinguishing between right and wrong and, therefore, does not really conform to the pattern of social behavior is considered by some psychiatrists to be insane.

There are some psychotic patients who have delusions and hallucinations which keep them from living peacefully and productively in society.

When such a person, by a social behavior, interferes with or threatens the health and welfare of neighbors and community, he may be considered as insane. An individual who cannot handle the problems of daily living without menacing his life or the life of those who surround him, may fall into this classification.

Unfortunately, the criteria for the diagnosis of insanity are so confusing that many people with mental incompetence cannot be incarcerated until after they have performed a dangerous, asocial act.

Legal insanity, too often, is the method by which people who are dangerous to others make this plea only to be returned to society prematurely and once again are allowed to wreak havoc.

One of my patients was declared legally insane after threatening to kill his family. He was sent to a mental institution, treated for two years and, on the day he was discharged, was able to buy a sawed-off shotgun with which he killed his wife and three children. The medical and legal professions have much more to learn about declaring a man insane and guessing when he has recovered sufficient sanity to be allowed the freedom of movement in society.

Can a fracture of the jaw be set in the same way as any other bone?

The bones of the body differ from each other by the amount of marrow they contain. The bones of the thigh have a great deal of marrow, while the bones of the jaw and the skull have less. Despite these differences, the method of healing, the drugs that are used, and the techniques of splinting the fragments depend on the severity and the type of fracture.

Fractures of the lower jaw are treated by a complicated method of wiring the fragments and aligning them in proper position. This operation is usually performed by a team of surgeons consisting of dentists, ear, nose, and throat surgeons, and plastic surgeons. Each makes a valuable contribution, depending on the nature of the fracture and whether it involves the jaw joint, the orbit of the eye, and the bones of the front of the face.

Ann Landers

Expensive import

Dear Ann Landers: You recently published a letter from a woman who said she would rather starve to death than return to housework. The gal listed several complaints—principally the extra things she had to do which were not housework, such as wash the car, repair the plumbing, shampoo the dog, mow the lawn, shovel the snow and so on. You were most sympathetic and invited your readers to present "the other side of the story—if there is one."

Well, there is one, and here it is.

Two years ago I went to the expense of bringing a so-called housekeeper over here from another country. Within 60 days, she had boiled the plastic egg timer with the eggs, tried to straighten the curved grapefruit knife with my pliers, put the rubber bathtub mat in the clothes dryer and ruined the motor, boiled a leg of lamb in deep water in the oven, and polished my silver service with steel wool. I could go on, but I think you have the picture.

Thanks in advance for printing the "other side."

EASIER TO DO IT MYSELF
Dear Easier: Yes, and cheaper, too. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother of three active children and I seem to be working my tail off from morning till night. I am not complaining. I love my husband, my kids and my home. The problem is my sister-in-law.

Lizette has three children whose ages are the same as mine—all under five. Four days a week Lizette drops her kids off at my house while she does charity work and gets her picture in the paper for being on this committee and that committee.

I think it is wonderful that Lizette is interested in community affairs, but I feel she is taking advantage of me. Not only do I bathe, feed and care for her kids, but she hands me her grocery list and says, "While you're getting your groceries, please get mine."

What do you think of this?

LIZETTE'S PATSY
Dear Patsy: I think Lizette has found herself a free babysitter, grocery shopper and all-around chump. But the question isn't what I think, it's what you think, and apparently you think it's fine or you'd have done something about it.

Hospital benefit nets over $6,000

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Pocono Mountains Antique Show, sponsored by the Auxiliary of the General Hospital of Monroe County, raised a record-breaking $6,265.86 for the three-day show held in the East Stroudsburg State College gymnasium.

In her report this week, Mrs. Elinor Christine, chairman, praised the work of the 100 volunteers who assisted in the auxiliary's major fund-raising project.

A breakdown of the figures showed increased income in every department. There were 2,532 people attending the show. Door receipts totaled $1,312.84; booklets, $3,472.06; the benefit project won by Mrs. Harrison Taylor, $1,014; the bake sale $183.59 and snacks, $243.37.

This year the auxiliary dropped the birthday calendar as a project to concentrate on the Antique Show. In 1967, the calendar and antique show combined for a total of $5,615 so that the net gain from the antique show alone was $650.86, Mrs. Maxwell Cohen, auxiliary president, reported.

Mrs. Frank S. Weiss was co-chairman of the show. Others serving in key roles were Mrs. Seldon Ponder, treasurer, and Mrs. George Richards, assistant.

Mrs. Frank Toman was chairman of the benefit; Mrs. William Hoffman of the snack bar and Mrs. Louis Carmella of the bake sale. Miss June Heydt was chairman of the booklet assisted by Mrs. Nathan Meyer, Mrs. Byron Knapp and Mrs. William Gorman.

Chairmen of hostesses for the three days were Mrs. Walter McClelland, Mrs. Howard Keiper Jr. and Mrs. Edward Steinhauer; chairmen of admissions for Wednesday, Mrs. Vernon Ellenberger and Mrs. Carl Wagner; Thursday, Mrs. Paul Lloyd and Mrs. Frank Maguire; and Friday, Mrs. Ray Arnold and Mrs. Mary Chiappa.

The General Hospital Auxiliary will have its opening luncheon on Tuesday, Sept. 10, at noon at The Fernwood in Bushkill.

Miss Steinhauer joining Children's Hospital staff

STROUDSBURG — Miss Susan Steinhauer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Steinhauer of Stroudsburg R.D. 4, has been notified by the State Board of Nurse Examiners that she has received Professional Nurse Licensure in Pennsylvania.

A 1963 graduate of Stroudsburg High School and a June, 1968, graduate of Community Medical Center, East. School of Nursing, Scranton, Miss Steinhauer has been employed at the General Hospital of Monroe County for the past six weeks.

On Sept. 9, she will begin as a staff nurse at The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Robert Keller Ace
(Clifford Hunt)

Ace-Albert wedding at Shawnee church

STROUDSBURG — Miss Donna Jane Albert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Albert of Stroudsburg RD 1, became the bride of Robert Keller Ace, at 2 p.m. on Oct. 24 in the Shawnee Presbyterian Church.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ace of 315 North Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

Rev. Frank Wingerter and Rev. George M. Doll officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Alpine gown of imported silk organza with empire waistline, sabrina neckline and a detachable court train. A matching silk organza bow trimmed with seed pearls held her veil of French illusion. She carried white Frenched carnations, yellow sweetheart roses, baby's breath and ivy.

Her sister, Deborah Louise Albert, was maid of honor. She wore an A-line gown of lime saki with buttoned panel back and matching Dior bow headpiece. She carried yellow Frenched carnations with baby breath and ivy.

Taryn Travis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Travis of Port Jervis was flower girl. Her gown was the same style and color as the bridesmaids' and she carried a basket of flowers.

Gus Rosato of Hazelton was best man. Ushers were John DeVivo and Jim Meichner, both of Stroudsburg. Junior ushers were Donald Albert Jr., brother of the bride, and Gary Travis, nephew of the bridegroom.

There were bouquets of flowers and candelabra flanking the altar. Jean Ann Wolbert was pianist and Robert Wolbert soloist. He sang "Because" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" during it.

A reception was held at Heddy's Hawaiian Room for 100 guests. Sammy Canova's orchestra played.

The bride's mother wore a turquoise dress with matching accessories and a gardenia corsage. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink dress with matching accessories and a pink rosebud corsage.

After a wedding trip to Ocean Grove, N.J., Mr. and Mrs. Ace plan to live in Bloomsburg where Mr. Ace is a senior. He was graduated from Stroudsburg High School in 1965 and attended Lackawanna Junior College for two years.

The bride, also a graduate

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

"I thought when you were tear-gassed, you just clenched your teeth and bore it. But you don't. You pick up your robes and run." That is what one of my nephews discovered during the police-student confrontation in Chicago.

As an Episcopal priest in a city parish in Chicago, he went with other clergy to Lincoln Park to offer the shelter of the city's church basement to the young people ordered out of the park at 11 p.m. Before any of the students had a chance to decide whether to accept or not, the police moved in with tear-gas to clear the park. That's when Jon got the tear gas with everybody else.

There is both the advantage and the upsetting feature of having a big family which covers not only a large portion of the earth's geography but also members at every age level. It's like having your private pipeline to all sorts of events, which would otherwise be a closed book.

But it also leaves you unarmored by a shield of indifference. Sometimes it

INSTANT SEWING

Lining a garment is simple and, with loosely woven fabrics, almost essential since it keeps the fabric in shape over areas that get the most stress and strain.

Two Ways

There are two ways of lining a skirt. The first is to treat the fabric and the lining as one. The other is to make a lining within the garment and not attached to the seams.

Two Layers

Lining and fabric are cut and marked identically. On a flat surface, place lining over the fabric (wrong sides facing); smooth flat and pin in place. Stitch both pieces together all the way around each garment separately, the lining is one-half inch shorter than the hem of the skirt. The zipper should be applied to the fabric only. The lining can then be hand sewn to the zipper.

Lining for Lace

If you have lace as your fabric, it should be lined. If sheerness is desired (such as in the sleeve areas) line the lace with tulle or net. The remainder of the garment should be lined with silk or rayon lining. No hem allowance is needed for a lace dress, rather the hemline is faced with two-inch horsehair braid and stitched to the inside of the skirt for a soft hem.

Exceptions

There are fabrics that do not need lining for they have a bonded backing that help to keep even a loose weave from stretching. However, the fashion trend is toward softer, fluid lines and the couturier originals are invariably lined.

Other important couture tips are included in our new INSTANT SEWING Book, a book with over 500 illustrations to make your sewing quicker, easier and more successful.

Copies of "Instant Sewing" at $1 each in cash, check or money order may be ordered from Pocono Record Instant Sewing Book Box 126, Old Chelsea Station, New York, N.Y. 10011. Include name, address and zip code number.

part except the hemline. Baste through the centers of each dart. It is most important that the lining lies flat on the garment fabric without wrinkles. Check this before assembling garment.

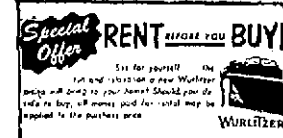

Hand baste the hemline. Assemble the parts of the skirt, treating the two layers as though they were one. When the skirt is completed and you are measuring to turn up the hem, cut away the lining at the hemline to eliminate excess bulk and stitch the hem to the lining only. No stitches should show on the right side of the garment.

Or Choose This

Lining the garment fabric are cut and marked identically just as in the method above. But now the lining and the garment are sewn separately.

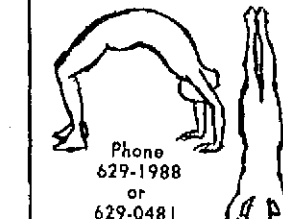

The lining is then inserted into the garment and attached at the waistline. The lining will now hang free. Each is hemmed

JACK O'BRIAN'S

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — "The Beautiful People" is a Liz-Dick-like novel but it's not The Burtons threatening suit-it's Sybil Burton Christopher. After all these 40 acting years, Charles Boyer says he's changed nothing—except he broke the gambling habit—dice and cards; rather keep the fortunes from such movies as his latest, "Madwomen of Chailot." We state flatly (After seeing him on stage-TV-screen) our opinion that Charles Boyer is the finest actor in the world. What would the Ice Capades NBC-TV special do without the second generation: producer is Jack Haley Jr., son of the rusty Tin Man of "Oz"; host is Jack Jones whose father

Allan serenaded donkeys; and special star is Nancy Sinatra, daughter of whoozis. Israel sharpened its payments exchange by merchandizing its new stainless steel razor blade here; called "Shalom." Considering its recent Middle East triumphs its ad copy seemed impertinently pertinent: "Will gain you quick victory—over your beard." Morris Morgenstern explained why he wasn't building the tall office building he'd planned on Bdv. Instead of, as he is, leasing his valuable corner to Nathan's famous Coney Island hotdog entrepreneurs: "We wanted to buy the movie house next door and replace the two buildings with one skyscraper but they wouldn't sell. And anyway, I always have loved Nathan's frankfurters." Beautiful Lauren Hutton went from $100 an hour modeling to TV commercials now to movie acting, and right on the edge of her Vivier heels is N.Y. model Kay Peters. One of the busiest but somehow somewhat underrated actors is Ricardo Montalban. Remember when free chacha lessons were positively The Thing, Maud, at the Borscht Circuit hotels? Now it's makeup demonstrations for the ladies, hairpieces for the men. In Japan a bottle of honest-to-Glasgow scotch whisky peddles for more than a monthly rent in a Tokyo housing development: $20 for the booze, $15 for the pad. Johnny Carson in TV Guide whimpered we always referred to his earnings as "loot," which we positively always didn't; if we ever mentioned it as "loot," we meant money; the third choice for the word "loot" in Webster's is simply money which is what we simply meant. Carson's publicized earnings per year for "Tonight" are about $1,000,000 and because he is responsible for a larger slice of NBC's cash intake than any other star, he is being properly rewarded. But the word we suspect Carson is irked at is not "loot" but another four-letter analysis of his TV performances of the last couple of TV seasons: "smug." Of course the dear lad never complained about our enthusiasm for his performances when we noted often and regularly when they were—and they were and often now still are—good. . . . we wonder why the same fellows who once were delighted to catch whatever attention came along, who could be ribbed in print or privately with good humor, suddenly upon several seasons of great acclaim automatically get hyper-sensitive. . . . Success thins the skin, quite apparently. Dick Cavett said Harold Stassen's campaign this time was modest: "He gave away three campaign buttons and his shirt fell off." . . . Maybe Don Rickles' success hasn't sat upon him long enough to slenderize his epidermis; his new TV writer Pat McCormick says it's a pleasure and a delight to work on Rickles' new show: "The pleasure is going home every night and the delight is the weekly paycheck." More about the thin-skin syndrome: When we panned Jerry Lewis' ABC-TV show which was whacked by every TV critic and was dropped fast, Jerry for months sent us a daily "Get Sick" card. . . . When we wrote a totally factual item about real-estate-bankrupt: (He just filed bankruptcy for $79 million!)

McGavin sets busy week

Darren McGavin, starring in Universal Television's new series "The Outsider," is in need of a jet-propelled automobile to keep his assignments this week. Currently guest starring in a Tony Franciosa segment of the studio's "Name Of The Game," McGavin begins rehearsal with Greer Garson for a Los Angeles stage production of "Captain Brassbound's Conversion" and is also set to tape guest appearances on NBC's daytime quiz, "You Don't Say."

Opening lead—three of hearts.
This deal occurred in the qualifying-round match between Holland and Denmark. The Dutch team, led by the current world pair champions, Bob Slavenburg and Hans Kreyns, had been expected to finish among the top four in the qualifying round of the 33-nation Olympiad played earlier this year, and, in fact, they finished third.
The bidding went as shown and Kreyns was lucky to get a heart lead from west. Playing in his usual rapid style, Kreyns won the heart in his hand with the ten, cashed the ace of spades, and ruffed a spade.

A diamond to the king was followed by another spade ruff, and a diamond to the ace (on which West's queen fell) was followed by a third spade ruff with the jack. This was now the position:

Kreyns would have gone down one, after cashing the club ace, had he attempted to exit from dummy by leading the ace of hearts, intending to ruff a heart next and draw trumps. East would have ruffed the heart and a diamond return would have allowed west to score the queen of trumps for the setting trick.
Kreyns would also have failed had he tried to exit from dummy by ruffing the jack of diamonds with the eight. West would have overruffed and returned a heart to beat the slam.
Alert to both possibilities, Kreyns instead ruffed with the jack of diamonds with the king of clubs and returned the eight of clubs. As a result of the safety play he came home with the slam.

Really never alone

Speaking of telephone harassment, something has got to be done to these offenders who interrupt you in the middle of something important, breathe heavily into your ear and cause you mental anguish beyond endurance. It's frightening.

I'm speaking, of course, of children and husbands. Of the approximate 16 incoming calls a day at our house, no more than one of them is ever for me. (Unless Spiegels is having a one-cent sale on orthopedic gym shoes.)

Imagine if you will a quiet hour. There is no visible form of life on the entire premises. The phone rings. On the sixth ring, I lift the receiver. Before I can say hello a voice from the cold air duct shouts, "Make it short. I want you to rap on the ceiling of the utility room so I can find the stud. I'm suffocating up here."

Out of the woodwork crawl children I have never seen before in my entire life eating raw potatoes, handing me register lids and bug traps. In shocked horror I watch as the footers take over. First, my transparent tape is brought out of its sealed hiding place, the refrigerator is emptied, the car leaves the driveway and the spoils of my purse are being divided among a group of strangers.

From heaven-knows-where a small voice demands, "Is that Grandma? I want to talk to Grandma. Who is this?" On the extension phone comes an urgent message, "Mom! Can I go to the drugstore with Mike and get 25 football cards if I throw the gum away? I've got my own money."

Next, come the stage whispers (Which can be heard in Cleveland on a clear day.) "Mama, can I spend the week in Wisconsin with Debbie and her family? I have to know now. They're packed and waiting for me in the driveway." At my elbow is a month laid open like a cavern and a voice pronouncing, "I've got 25 teeth. How many do you have?"

Meanwhile, down from the attic staggers Billy Goat Gruff demanding, "Who are you talking to? What does she want? Hang up and call her back."

Completing the semi-circle are a couple of pantomimists who could make Charlie Chaplin eat his heart out. They are insistent for an answer. "No, you cannot launch Stanley to the moon with your new liquid fuel." Who put a pregnant cat in our barbecue grill in the first place? How many?"

The replacing of the receiver into the hook is like a switch being thrown. The little hands waving packages of Kool Aid under your nose disappear, along with the barking dogs and the crowds of people. Only one muffled voice from the attic is there to assure you it happened at all. "I'm suffocating up here!"

If I could only believe that.

Teen Forum

Freckles are cute

FRECKLEPUSS: (Comment) I would like to reply to the girl who was worried about freckles.

I'm proud of my freckles and make the most of them. I get a lot of compliments on them. In fact, my father calls me "Frecklepuss."

Terry in Orlando, Fla.

(A.) We keep finding out that all kinds of girls read Teen Forum. Brenda may make an asset out of what Linda considers a handicap. Here's a freckle tip: Crinkle your nose just right and the freckles on it will look cute enough to make a boy want to kiss you — and not in a fatherly way.

JOB WAR: (Q.) A girl a year-and-a-half older than I am is trying to take my baby-sitting job away from me. It's a real super job.

If I'm ill or busy, she fills in for me. She shows up, too, when I'm working. She hangs around as long as two hours. If it's daytime, she bribes the children to go home with her.

Should I just let her have the job to keep by own peace of mind?

Sandy in Scranton, Pa.

(A.) No. In bigger jobs you'll have later you'll run into similar competition. The start is no time to give in.

The next time the girl horns in while you're working, tell her two things:

First, that the children are your responsibility and they must stay with you. This is important. You would be in trouble if they got hurt or harmed at her house.

Second, tell her you want to do the best job you can, and her being around keeps you

New law provides for police pension

Record Harrisburg Bureau
HARRISBURG — Monroe County's four boroughs and 16 townships now are in position to provide their policemen with a retirement program. If they don't already have one, according to legislation now signed into law by the Governor.

Under the new act a "Municipal Employees' Retirement Board" is to be established on the state level to administer the program. Commented Governor Shafer as he signed the legislation into law: "We entrust our law officers with a very special set of responsibilities. They deserve the benefits of a well-planned retirement system. With this bill, we now have an established procedure by which the municipalities can provide their policemen with a retirement plan if they don't already have one."

Under the measure, if a retirement plan already exists, the municipality (borough or township) may join the state system only if 75 per cent of the plan's members want it.

Individual policemen will make regular contributions. At age 55 they will receive retirement benefits based upon the last five years' salaries.

Some of the specifics of the new program:

— If a municipality elects to join the retirement system then each policeman is required to become a member;

— Full credit is to be given to each original member for each year of service to the municipality prior to joining the system.

— Full credit is to be given those members called to military duty;

— The amount of contribution of individual members is to be computed by the Board actuary but the law specifies that "the member shall not be required to contribute more than eight per cent of his salary or compensation";

This new law also applies to Pike County's two boroughs and 11 townships.

Ex-college president dies at 85

BUCK HILL FALLS — Frank D. Packenthal, 85, former president of Columbia University, died Thursday at the General Hospital of Monroe County. He had been in ill health for several years dating from an auto accident in December of 1965.

Dr. Packenthal was born in Helttertown on Feb. 22, 1883. He spent most of his life at Columbia University from which he was graduated in 1906.

He was chief clerk at the school from 1906 to 1910, secretary from 1910 to 1937, provost from 1937 to 1945 and acting president from 1945 until he retired in 1948. He was succeeded as president by Gen. Dwight Eisenhower.

He received many honorary degrees and served as a director of many institutions. After his retirement he served for four years as a consultant to the Carnegie Foundation, as a member of the Commission on Financing Higher Education, president of the Columbia University Press and was in many other activities.

Dr. Packenthal had lived in the Buck Hill Falls cottage community for about 15 years.

He never married. Closest survivors are a nephew in Indiana and a niece in California.

Burial will be in Helttertown Cemetery after services at the Fairchild and Son Funeral Home, 951 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N.Y.

C.E. Kerrick's services held

Doctor named chairman

O'Brien committee formed

MT. POCONO — C. Brock Weiss, Cresco physician, has been named chairman of the Citizens for O'Brien Campaign Committee. The committee will coordinate the campaign of Peter J. O'Brien, Democratic candidate for state representative, in Monroe County.

A large portion of Monroe is included with Pike and Wayne Counties to form the 139th District.

Also named to the committee were Gerald Possinger, mayor of Mount Pocono, vice chairman; Mrs. Nancy Hartman Miller, East Stroudsburg R.D. 1, secretary; and Atty. J. Joseph McCluskey, Stroudsburg, treasurer.

Dr. Weiss is a native of East Stroudsburg who graduated with a B.S. degree at Penn State University and who earned his M.D. degree at Cornell University Medical Center in 1962.

A captain in the U.S. Air Force from 1952 to 1956, Dr. Weiss is a member of the Board of Directors of the Barrett YMCA and a member of the Pocono Mountains Rotary Club.

Pocono Crest offers concert

POCONO CREST — A free concert will be given by St. Peter's College Men's Glee Club in the community center at Pocono Crest in Pocono Pines on Saturday at 9 p.m.

The program will include "Mame", "Glory to God" by Bach; "Brothers Sing On" by Grieg; "Last Words of David" by Randall Thompson and "So I can write my Name" a negro spiritual.

This is the group's inaugural concert for the 1968-69 concert season and will be followed by performances in Philadelphia and Wilkes-Barre, Rochester, N.Y. and South Woodstock, Conn.

Patrick R. Clynes will direct the Club. Clynes has been with the group since 1960 and also was director of Georgian Court College in Lakewood, N.J. with educational background from Cambridge and London University in England.

An offering will be taken with proceeds going to the hospital building fund.

Mayor Possinger is proprietor of a painting and decorating concern in Mount Pocono. He is past president of the Mount Pocono Rotary Club.

Mrs. Miller has been committeewoman in Smithfield Township for the past two terms. Active in girl scouting, Mrs. Miller is a member of the Monroe County Garden Club and the Pleasant Valley Manor Advisory Board. She is attending East Stroudsburg State College.

Tax base increases $3 million

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Chief Assessor William Fetherman told the County Commissioners Thursday that, prior to the beginning of assessment appeal decisions, $4,311,350 had been picked up by his office in new buildings and land improvements.

The county's assessed value is now $97,809,600.

Fetherman said that out of 6,000 assessment changes, his office had worked down to 65 people who desire a hearing before the Board of Assessment.

He told the commissioners that 10 days notice was necessary after a hearing date is set, and asked the commissioners to take immediate action so that hearings could start by Sept. 16.

He said the commissioners could hear 10 appeals a day, since 30 minutes is allowed for each appeal. Fetherman added that by Oct. 15 he must have an estimated assessment increase sent out to all taxing bodies.

The commissioners decided to hear ten cases on Sept. 17, 18, 20, 24, and 25, and five cases on Sept. 16, 23 and 26.

Fetherman noted that the deadline for appealing assessment changes was Sept. 3 this year, since Sept. 1 was a Sunday and Sept. 2 a legal holiday.

Three deeds total $145,500

STROUDSBURG — Three deeds recorded Thursday in the offices of the Register and Recorder in the Monroe County Courthouse totaled $145,500. They were:

Sophie A. Hardenstine of Stroudsburg sold a 9,772 square foot piece of land on West Main St. in Stroudsburg to the Shell Oil Company, a Delaware Corporation, for $33,500.

John J. and Irene Dally of Blakeslee sold a 2.6 acre plot on T.R. 511 in Paradise Township to John R. Larson Realty Corp., Cresco R.D. 1 for $29,000.

In the largest transaction, Ruth Price Kevy and Roberta Price Westbrook, administratrixes C.T.A. of the estate of the late Arthur M. Price sold two tracts in Smithfield Township, one of 101 acres and the other of 12.42 acres, to M. Keen Cornell of Dalton for $83,000.

Oncoming car causes crash

STROUDSBURG — State Police from Stroudsburg investigated a one-car accident Wednesday at 9 p.m. on a rural route in Hamilton Township. They reported no injuries and estimate damage at $300.

Dale D. Learn, 21, of Stroudsburg R.D. 2 told police that an unidentified car forced him off the highway.

Legion seeking meal fees

STROUDSBURG — George N. Kemp Post, Memorial Hall Association, American Legion, 268 Washington St., East Stroudsburg, is seeking $1,088 from Redmond Finishing Co., Brown St., East Stroudsburg, according to papers filed in the Prothonotary's office in the Monroe County Courthouse.

The plaintiff alleges that Redmond failed to pay the full cost of a banquet held Dec. 17, 1966, in the Legion Home.

According to the papers, in Nov. 1966, Peter Swarthwood, acting for the defendant, along with another man, met with Peter Maaser of the Legion and made reservations for a company party and dinner Dec. 17, 1966 at the Legion.

Swarthwood, the plaintiff further states, ordered 250 meals for $3.25 per meal for the officers and employees of Redmonds.

Redmonds, the papers state, also asked the bar be open and was told the cost would be $10 and $12 per bottle of alcoholic beverage and 30 cents per bottle of beer.

The papers further allege that Redmond agreed to make any changes in the number of meals by the Monday before the party.

Plaintiff contends that on the Tuesday or Wednesday before Dec. 17, Allen Ginsburg asked that the price of the meals be lowered to $3 and Maaser agreed, with nothing said about lowering the number of meals.

On December 16, the Legion claims, Swarthwood said only 200 people could come and only 200 meals were desired. He was told by Maaser, the suit states, that it was too late to make such a change and Redmond would have to pay.

The Legion claims that on Dec. 17, only 154 meals were served to the 154 people attending the party. Furthermore, the papers claim $687 worth of beverages were served from the bar.

The suit then contends that Ginsburg asked Maaser for Scotch, and when told by Maaser that Scotch couldn't be supplied for the prices quoted, told him to serve whatever guests wanted at regular bar prices. The guests, the papers say, subsequently spent $88 at the bar.

The papers allege that leftover food could not be saved and was given to the Salvation Army and poor families in order to dispose of it.

The suit states further that on Dec. 17, at Ginsburg's request, the Legion agreed to reduce the number of meals to 200 provided the bill be paid by the Monday after Dec. 17.

Furthermore, the suit alleges, when the bill was presented, Ginsburg would only pay for 154 people who came, which he did on Dec. 23 for a total of $553.

John J. Pentz is attorney for the plaintiff.

Woman pays $100 fine

EAST STROUDSBURG — Cecilia Pavelski, 47, of Mountaintop, Tuesday night pleaded guilty to a drunk and disorderly charge, paid $100 fine and cost and was released.

The woman was arrested late Monday night by East Stroudsburg Police when she was fighting with a man on Franklin Hill Road.

She was committed to Monroe County Jail to await the hearing.

Commissioners may act on PVM sewage plant

STROUDSBURG — A discussion Thursday about the proposed sewage disposal plant at Pleasant Valley Manor, Snyder'sville, brought the Monroe County Commissioners to the conclusion that the sooner the project can be bid and the price stabilized, the more advantageous it will be for the county.

The board was meeting with architect Elmer Kiefer of Rinker, Kiefer and Rake Architects, Stroudsburg, in reference to a letter received last week from the firm that the cost of the plant, with a 50 per cent increase capacity over present requirements, would be $125,000.

Without the extra capacity, the plant would currently cost $80,000.

In response to a question by Chairman Elwood Hintze in regard to the necessity of the extra capacity, Kiefer explained, "If you decide to put on an extra wing before you build the EAST STROUDSBURG — Lizzie Jane Lasher, 83, of East Stroudsburg RD 3 was married last night to Joseph Gilmore, who is in his 50s, in a quiet ceremony in the parsonage of the East Stroudsburg Baptist Church by Rev. Norman R. Savage.

Two of Mrs. Lasher's granddaughters, Mrs. Arlington Lambert and Mrs. Ray Possinger, served as witnesses at the ceremony, which was followed by a family party at the home of the bride, on Andromeda Road near Learn's Store.

At the party were many of the bride's four children, 13 grandchildren and 24 great grandchildren.

The simple ceremony at the parsonage was quiet but not strained, and was followed by an easy give and take.

"After all, I've done this twice before," said the bride comfortably.

"Yes, she's way ahead of me," said the bridegroom, for whom this is the first marriage.

"Never mind," she twinkled after she had finished the tally. "Wait until they see how our family grows now."

There was warmth and affection and family approval, even without the formal trappings of a wedding, and the wedding cake and coffee reception was as relaxed and comfortable as the wedding.

The bride is the daughter of the late Jesse and Amanda Shiffer Cramer of Meisertown. Her husband is a native of Baltimore and is an ambulance driver for the General Hospital of Monroe County.

President to greet ESSC freshmen today

EAST STROUDSBURG — The annual President's reception for entering freshmen will highlight a week of orientation activity for 700 new entrants who have been admitted to East Stroudsburg State College for the fall term.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. Sills will head the reception line of college administrators and student leaders tonight in the Student Commuting Center.

Following the reception a dance will take place in the Zimbar gymnasium.

The new entrants began arriving with trunks and suitcases Tuesday and were assisted into their new quarters through registration with the social deans — Miss Mildred Wheatley and Lewis A. Judy.

Approximately 80 male students were assigned to the American House in Stroudsburg. This was necessary again this year due to limited dormitory facilities on the main campus.

On Tuesday, parents who so desired attended an orientation held in the college auditorium at 4 p.m. President Sills extended greetings.

A panel composed of Dean Wheatley, Dean Judy, Dr. Francis McGarry, Dean of Instruction, and Earl Slutter, Director of Student Personnel, answered questions posed by the parents.

Dr. Paul Morton, Director of Public Relations hosted the meeting and served as moderator.

Thursday night, local clergymen attended a dinner and get-together for the new students. The purpose of the get-together was to acquaint the students with the local clergymen of their particular faith and denomination.

The past week was a busy one for the new students as they also attended a panel discussion by upper classmen under the chairmanship of Dr. John Appel; a general session on guidance directed by Earl Slutter; took cooperative English exams while Health and Physical Education majors took basic skills tests.

The group toured the campus, were photographed for Identification Cards, purchased textbooks, visited the library and secured a charge-a-plate and took a medical examination.

Upperclassmen will arrive on Monday which is also the day on which all classes begin.

Gun control, stream pollution highlight sportsmen's meet

EAST STROUDSBURG — Gun control and stream pollution highlighted Thursday's meeting of the Monroe County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs at the Pen N' Sword Restaurant, East Stroudsburg.

Lehigh County Sheriff, Paul Henderson, Republican candidate opposing incumbent Democratic Congressman Fred B. Rooney for U.S. Congressman in Pennsylvania's 15th District, told about 20 sportsmen club members that the only effective way to deal with gun control is to enact stricter penalties for a person committing a crime with a firearm.

Henderson, recommended a "mandatory period of confinement for a person committing a crime with a gun." This could be done through an amendment to the constitution, he added.

Opposed to any future gun control legislation, Henderson drew an analogy between gun control legislation and prohibition in this country during the 1920's.

If stronger gun control legislation is enacted between now and Oct. 1, Henderson said, it will create a desire for everybody to rush out and buy a gun, even those who have never handled a gun before.

"About 500,000 cars are stolen every year in this country," Henderson said. "There are about 100 million guns in the United States. What about Gun theft?"

He cited the difficulty of tracing a registered gun that's been stolen, one that was involved in a serious crime, murder.

"Say you catch the person who did it, and that person tells you he sold it," Henderson said.

You go to the person whom he sold the gun to and that person tells you the same thing. He sold it to somebody else. What do you accomplish by registering the gun?"

In a matter of local stream pollution, President George Learn said a large Pocono Mountain resort's sewage effluent had been seeping into a small mountain creek in the area of Swiftwater.

"Toilet sewage is strewn among the hemlocks and rhododendron," Learn said. "Propylactics are hanging on bushes. The resort continues to grow but the sewage facilities do not keep pace with the expansion. The stream is ruined for fishing, perhaps ruined forever."

Learn did not reveal the name of the resort but two federation members said that the sewage came from Mount Airy Lodge.

Learn said he spoke to a county health officer about the problem and the officer told Learn that the situation would be corrected next year.

But Walter Burkhardt, county fish warden said the state laws now on the books regarding sewage do not effectively remedy the situation, that it usually takes a number of years before concrete legal action can take place to clean up the polluted area.

Members approved Burkhardt's suggestion to have the secretary, James Price write to a Pennsylvania Department of Health officer in Kingston and to request the officer to attend the next federation meeting to discuss sewage and pollution and what can be done about it.

John Riley, representing Gooseberry Hollow Gun Club, announced that the annual federation banquet will be held at the Lake House, Saylorsburg on Oct. 19.

Paradise oks garbage rules

SWIFTWATER — Paradise Township supervisors agreed to draw up an ordinance for regulating trash collection during their regular monthly meeting held Tuesday night.

James LaCue, state health officer was present and entered into discussion with the supervisors on the planned ordinance and suggested that supervisors also give thought to include restrictions of burning trash.

Supervisors were requested to attend a discussion meeting with the Pocono Mountain School District on the enactment of a proposed one per cent earned income tax.

In other business, supervisors discussed current road projects and improvement of building permits.

Mt. Pocono nixes request

MOUNT POCONO — A request by the state unemployment office to have access to the municipal building for one day per week for the next year was disapproved by the Mount Pocono Borough Council during their regular meeting Tuesday night.

Members discussed several ideas on lettering of the police patrol car and installing a regulation flasher on the car. No action was taken.

Harold C. Shannon was re-appointed as councilman to replace the unexpired term of William Johnson who has moved out of the area.

Water Gap council to discuss placing man on commission

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Members of the Delaware Water Gap Borough council Wednesday night discussed with controversy the replacement of two vacancies on the borough planning commission with possible appointment of a councilman.

Following a lengthy debate which brought out both personal feelings and legal facts on the question of having a council member seated on the planning commission, members agreed to hold a special meeting on Sept. 16 to discuss the matter further.

Stephen Matos, council president, favored the appointment because "it would keep open lines of communication between council and the commission."

Matos said the commission is not now functioning because of the two vacancies existing which occurred by the resignation of Rodney Baechthold and Mrs. Sally Rosencrans.

Matos did not recommend any particular person to serve on the commission but emphasized that "there has often been a breakdown in communications between the two groups. Having a council member on the commission could overcome this problem."

Solicitor, Harry F. Lee told members that the borough code does not consider the two offices incompatible and the move would be legal although second class township codes prohibits a township supervisor from being a member of the township planning commission.

In other business, council voted to release the final payment to former police chief, Charles B. Lepper which was being held up until he returned all materials to the police department, including a pair of handcuffs, a badge and a pair of pants.

Sections of Walnut Lane, Crossdale Drive and Parkway Drive will be included into the borough road system, it was agreed by council.

Matos said council should request a reassessment of the Ronson Corp. and the Shawnee Press properties since both have had remodeling work done.

State rejects probation grant

STROUDSBURG — The Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare has rejected Monroe County's application for juvenile probation grant-in-aid, the county commissioners learned Thursday in a letter from Kenneth C. Murphy, superintendent of Community Services.

The reason for the rejection, the letter stated, was that the county's plan for staff salaries and training expenditures results in a decrease of county expenditure from last year, in violation of state standards.

The county was slated to receive $1,728 from the state according to Henry McCool, probation officer. The actual decrease in expenditures, the letter said, is from $10,843.58 to $8,490.

McCool explained that when Miss Elizabeth Martin resigned from the probation department, Mrs. Janice Pensyl was hired to replace her. Miss Martin worked full time with juveniles while Mrs. Pensyl works part time in that section.

This eliminated the possibility of Mrs. Pensyl's salary being included in the request for grant-in-aid, McCool said. The large difference between last year's and the current expenditure is accounted for chiefly by Miss Martin's salary.

Barrett firemen use caution

CRESCO — Barrett Township firemen were called to stand-by for possible outbreak of a fire Thursday morning when a propane gas truck was undergoing repairs.

Fire chief Charles Ayers explained that one of the couplings on the truck was apparently ruptured and gas was leaking out. Four trucks and 25 firemen were called at 10:35 a.m.

George Dunn new singles champion of Lawn Bowling

BUCK HILL FALLS — George Dunn of Niagara Falls, N.Y., is the new singles champion of the U. S. Lawn Bowling Championships. Dunn, the Eastern Division's king, swept through two matches Thursday to rack up his fourth triumph in five games to outdistance the field in the five-day tournament at the greens of Buck Hill Falls Inn.

Dunn, who bested Bob Veitch of Berkeley, Calif., 21-10, was given an assist when Art Grimmitt of Santa Barbara, Calif., defeated his nearest competitor, Lewis Storm of Seattle, Wash., 23-11.

The battle for the runner-up position will continue today and Saturday with Veitch, Storm and Art Hartley of Clearwater, Fla. in contention.

Hartley, Southeast champion, eliminated William Johnson of Livonia, Mich. Thursday, 23-11.

The doubles crown of the U.S. was still up for grabs after Thursday's matches. The team of Veitch and Ralph Gordon of Oakland, Calif., remained unbeaten in three starts, topping defending champions, Al Hughes and Harold Esch of Orlando, Fla., 24-11. The James Candel and Bob Smart duo of Providence were still in the running via a 24-13 verdict over Northwest's representatives, Asel Tabor and Paige Newton of Portland, Ore.

Veitch and Gordon take on Smart and Candel, Eastern kingspins today in a crucial match. A victory by the Pacific team will give them the championship.

In other doubles matches Paige Newton and Asel Tabor of Seattle, Wash., downed Jeff Weatherly and Bill Mumma of Riverside, Calif., 20-13, and Esch and Hughes bowed to Bill Miller and Bob McGaffney, Central Division champions, 23-18.

The loss left Esch and Hughes with a 2-3 record, and Miller and McGaffney, both of Gary, Indiana, with a 3-2 mark.

PML playoffs start Sunday

STROUDSBURG — The post season playoffs in the Pocono Mountain League will get underway as scheduled this Sunday.

League officials decided to end the regular season Thursday night and not finish out the schedule. Kunkletown was the seasonal champ followed by Saylorsburg, Portland and Paradise.

Thus on Sunday Portland visits K-town and Paradise hosts the Lakers in the sudden death series.

Gene Mauch took '20 seconds' to become manager of Expos

MONTREAL (UPI) — Gene Mauch, taking "only 20 seconds" to make up his mind, deserted the ranks of baseball's unemployed Thursday when he accepted the managership of the National League's new Montreal Expos because it offers the chance he always wanted to build a team "from the ground up."

Mauch, fired by the Philadelphia Phillies on June 15 after nearly eight seasons during which he came within a game in 1964 of winning the national league pennant, "never even discussed length of contract" when he agreed to take over the fledgling Montreal club which starts play next year.

"This is the job I want," Mauch said elatedly. "Not too many people get to help build a team from the ground up. This is an exciting challenge."

John McHale, who left the office of Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert, to become president of the Expos, said Mauch was his first choice all along.

"Nobody else was considered with any degree of seriousness," he said.

Mauch was visited by General Manager Jim Fanning Wednesday night and was offered the managership post.

"It took me about 20 seconds to agree to take the job," Mauch said.

He then returned to Montreal with Fanning for the formal announcement. His immediate plans are to go looking for ballplayers he hopes to land at the National League expansion draft, to be held Oct. 14 in Montreal.

"I'm going to be on the go, starting tomorrow," he said. "I'm going to be watching baseball games all over—in the majors and minors."

It actually was a double-barrelled announcement. McHale also disclosed for the first time the team's nickname of "Expos," chosen after polling baseball fans throughout Canada.

McHale said the name would automatically identify the team with Montreal in the minds of people throughout the world who recalled the Expo '67 world's fair.

Mauch felt the selection was an "inspired" one, a 42-year-old native of Salina, Kan., Mauch was considering another major league managerial post and two major league coaching jobs when he was offered the Montreal job. He jumped at it.

It will be his second tour of duty in Montreal, having played for the International League entry in 1943 and 1944. And it will be his second major league managerial job, having made his debut in 1960 when the Phils named him to succeed Eddie Sawyer shortly after that season started.

Before that, Mauch managed Atlanta of the Southern Association and Minneapolis of the American Association following a 16-year playing career that started in 1943 at Durham of the Piedmont League.

Performing mostly at short-stop and second base, Mauch saw action with Brooklyn, Chicago, St. Louis, Pittsburgh and Boston of the National League and with Boston of the American League. His Major league batting average was .239.

Player dissent reportedly had a big hand in his firing at Philadelphia, where the team was languishing in the second division. His differences with star Richie Allen were well publicized. Asked if he would consider hiring Allen if he had the chance, he said:

"If his name comes up, we'll give him a chance to be booed in both English and French."

McHale told reporters the club that nearly didn't happen—it went right down to the wire before putting up a guarantee of more than a million dollars and producing a temporary stadium—had no qualms about customers.

He said newly-appointed ticket manager Lucien Geoffrion, who handled a similar job with the old Royals, started out with 1,767 orders for season tickets from fans who still don't know where they will sit or how much the tickets will cost.

The club is expected to name a coach within two weeks. Fanning, who has been on the road almost continuously since his appointment last month, said he also expected to come up with the names of some "quality players" in about a week. Others will be picked up in the baseball draft meeting that opens here Oct. 14.

When the Expos start operating next season, they will play in a park with a 39,000-seat temporary stadium in north-end Montreal. McHale said a dozen city employees were working full-time on plans to enlarge a smaller stadium on the site. It is expected to be at least two or three years before they have a hoped-for multi-million dollar stadium of their own.

Crampton's seven birdies gives him two-stroke lead in Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)—Australian Bruce Crampton carded a six-under-par 65 Thursday with seven birdies against a single bogey to take the first round lead in the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open golf tournament at the Wethersfield Country Club.

Four of Crampton's birdies came on consecutive holes and he missed making it five in a row when he had a bad putt on the eighth hole.

Behind the 32-year-old Crampton at 67 were Ken Still, rookie Ron Cerrudo, Mason Rudolph, Billy Maxwell and Al Balding, Billy Casper, a favorite, fired a

Warriors picked by PSC coaches to dethrone West Chester

EAST STROUDSBURG — It's East Stroudsburg in the East and any of three teams — California, Clarion or Shippensburg — in the West.

That's the way the coaches are picking the divisional champions in the Pennsylvania State Collegiate Athletic football conference this fall.

In a poll of the seven coaches of the Eastern Division, six saw East Stroudsburg's talented, veteran eleven knocking West Chester's defending champions for a loop on Saturday night, Sept. 28, at West Chester, and then stampeding to the Eastern Division crown.

Only Bloomsburg coach Jerry Denstorf tags along with the Golden Rams. "I'm picking them because of their record (10-0 last year) and their tradition," declared the first-year coach.

But West Chester coach Bob Mitten, who voted for his own team last year, is picking the Warriors in the pre-season poll conducted by the conference sports information department "although they've got to come down here and lick us," he said.

The six Western coaches saw a free-for-all in their division. Defending champion Clarion, California and Shippensburg each pulled in two first place votes. California received the most second place votes—three. None of the contending coaches, incidentally, voted his team a first place.

Leading the wide-open quest for the conference championship will be another flashy array of backs and ends. West Chester has two of them—fullback Bert Nye, the nation's leading scorer in 1967 with 131 points; and end Don Wilkinson who grabbed 62 passes including 10 in the Tangerine Bowl at Orlando, Fla.

East Stroudsburg touts junior quarterback Bill Dukett who completed 53 percent of his passes in 1967, and Ed Csenesitz who snared 38 of them for a school record, and fullback John Pitzer who pounded out 125 yards a game. Pitzer hasn't lost a yard in two years.

Shippensburg has Steve Bumgarner, who fired for 1,013 yards before a broken collarbone finished him in his seventh game; an All-State halfback Ed Hammers who rushed for 696 yards (4.5 a carry).

There's senior quarterback Jeff Petrucci at California, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA), total offense leader with 277 yards a game; Mansfield signal-caller Stu Casterline who threw for 1,205 yards in 1967; and Gene Nance, brother of the Boston Patriots' Jim Nance, who heads three sub 9.8 sprinters in Cheyney's lightning backfield.

All of these performers—and several linemen—will be looked over by the pros, as were many last year.

West Chester quarterback Jim Haynie had a tryout with the Minnesota Vikings; defensive tackle Brian Mulhern with the San Diego Chargers. Haynie wound up with the Pittsburgh Pirates, a Philadelphia Eagles affiliate in the Continental League, along with 1967 teammate Danny Hale, a starting linebacker. Mulhern is teaching in Chester.

Three from Bloomsburg also received tryouts. End Ron Kucharski tore his knee the first day of practice with the Green Bay Packers; the Boston Patriots sent their other great end, Bob Tucker, to their arm team; and quarterback Steve Lichtel caught on with the Harrisburg Colonets.

Quarterback Jim Alcorn, who directed Clarion into the conference title game against Chester (the Rams won, 27-7), tried out with the Cleveland Browns. He wound up with the Wheeling, W. Va., Ironmen of the Continental League.

Here is a capsule view of the Eastern conference teams:

BLOOMSBURG—10 lettermen return...coach Jerry Denstorf (1st year), succeeds Russell Houk who devotes full time to athletic directorship...Denstorf, 1960 Evansville grad, was defensive coach four years at Morehead (Ky.) State...teaches modified wing T...All backs are soph and 1967 freshmen didn't win a game...Terry Lessman and Tom Schneider vie at QB. Bill Firestone (10.1 speed) at tailback Paul Serinowsky (85) and John Rossi (190) at fullback...Linebacker Mike Barnhart (15-10, 190) is best all-around lineman...Def. line will average 190...off. line 198...OUTLOOK: Victories will be few with 14 sophos starting.

CHEYNEY—21 lettermen return...coach Cleophas Hatcher (3d year) teaches wing T and modified pro offenses...Soph Robert Scott has 9.7 speed at halfback; transfer Robert Brown from Fayetteville State Teachers College, North Carolina, has 9.6 speed at fullback; and Gene Nance can go 9.8 at wingback...Jeff Samuels, Harold Carter, Thomas Bryan and Fred Page are also capable running backs...Ron Hollis, a junior from Chester, takes over at QB backed up by Ben Wrenn, 6-2, 210 from Wash., D.C...Top linemen are 6-0, 225 Ernie Costanzo, 6-1, 244 Alfonso Covert, 6-3, 220 Allen Jeffries, 205 Ivan and 210 Mike Kayser and 6-2, 225 Kirk McCollough...Def. line averages 225...off. line 205 212...OUTLOOK: Winning season if injuries few.

East Stroudsburg—18 lettermen return...coach Charlie Reese (3d year) teaches pro offense, wing T and 1 formations...Top backs are 6-1 QB Bill Dukett, 2d team All-PSCAC fullback, John Pitzer, halfbacks Trevor Lawrence, 6-3, 225 senior James Waite and Bobby Dinan; also fullback John Troni...Top linemen are end Ed Csenesitz, 6-2, 210, who ran 620 yards with 38 passes, All-Pscac middle linebacker 6-0, 210 Gary Schoenberger who coach says "is good enough to be All-American"; 6-0, 215 tackle Bill Forte, 6-2, 215 tackle Bill Kearns, 6-2; 215 tackle Dennis Morgan, and linebacksers Dick Siwak and Tom Sykes...Def. line will average 185...off. line 210...OUTLOOK: Good, experienced QB is key to beating West Chester.

winning title...Could go undefeated.

KITZTOWN—15 lettermen return...Coach Bill Kinderman (3d year) teaches wing T...Soph Phil Anderson, 6-0, 230, former Ches-Mont League rushing champion from Great Valley High, and 5-11, 185 Bob Henderson, All-Everything at S. Williamsport, will take over at halfback and move 1967 rush leader Jack Wabby into defensive secondary...Vet Carroll Warner back at fullback...QB candidates are Kevin Rogan, who suffered industrial foot accident during summer, and letter-winner LeRoy Thompson of Chester...Herb Garrett was All-PSCAC honorable mention as defensive lineman...Def. line will average 220...off. line 215...OUTLOOK: Will improve on 1-7 record, but QB uncertainty could hurt this good young team.

Mansfield—13 lettermen return...Coach Rod Ketcher (3d year) teaches multiple offense...Top backs form 1967 team which averaged 28 points a game are QB Stu Casterline who fired for 1,205 yards and 5.8, 165 halfback Bob Soprano, the leading scorer. Junior Ray Hipp also returns...Freshman team had academic problems, won't help much although frosh had 4-1 record...Right side of offensive line returns including end Mike Diveris, tackle Pete Patanza, guard Bill Whalen and center Jim Campbell...Six return to the secondary including 6-1, 205 All-PSCAC 2d team defensive tackle Steve Dreihels...Def. line will average 215...off. line 205...OUTLOOK: Top QB will help, but loss of 20 seniors will make it difficult to duplicate 6-3 record.

Millersville—21 lettermen return...Coach George Katchmer (15th year) teaches multiple T offense...Starters Dick Barbecue, fullback who led rushers with 318 yards last year; halfbacks Dick Griffin and Jan Bowman return...Senior Bill Downs is being converted from defensive halfback to quarterback for graduated Gary Collins...Downs is a good strategist and he has mastered his throwing problems...Bowman was All-PSCAC first team defensive halfback in 1967...Top lineman is 6-0, 220 offensive tackle Dick Cleary...Def. line averages 200...off. line 190...Bob Mesaros, Pottsville high head coach, joins Katchmer as his backfield coach...OUTLOOK: May improve on 3-6 record.

West Chester—21 lettermen return...Coach Bob Mitten (3d year) teaches flanker and Split T...Top backs are fullback Bert Nye with 19 TDs and 131 points, plus 38.5 average punting in 1967; 6-0, 202 soph halfback Rocky Rees, junior halfback Paul Dunkleberger who sprinted 74 yards for TD with punt return against Tennessee-Martin in 25-8 Tangerine Bowl loss; and soph quarterbacks Tom Hauer and Steve Dills who both connected on 40-yard TD strikes in spring game...Top pass receivers Don Wilkinson (62 catches) and Bob Tomlinson (27) are back along with entire offensive line with one exception...Only linebacker Jackie Gibson and end Bill Corcoran return on defense, but nine others have been grooming two years on bench...Carl Gersbach, 6-2, 225 transfer from Duke, and 5-11, 195 Bill Skinner back up line...Gersbach will be a name to remember in our league...Def. line averages 215...off. line 210...OUTLOOK: If backs stay healthy (4 frosh and vet Bill Zinkle were lost since spring game) Rams will have another banner season.

Bengals kickoff AFL season tonight; Paul Brown ends self-imposed exile

By STEVE SMILANICH
UPI Sports Writer

Paul Brown, a trailblazer in the post-World War II growth of professional football, ends his self-imposed exile and resumes a pioneering role again today as the new Cincinnati Bengals help kick off the American Football League's ninth season.

Brown, whose Cleveland teams dominated the old All-American Conference until it folded in 1949, also made Cleveland a power in the National Football League until he left coaching in 1962.

Now the 59-year-old tactician returns to the game he helped build into a multi-million dollar business by leading the expansion Bengals against the San Diego Chargers in a nationally televised game from the West Coast.

Four other teams help the AFL inaugurate a campaign in which the league hopes to challenge the more established NFL for prestige and spectator appeal.

Other league games on the abbreviated opening program send Boston to Buffalo in a Sunday afternoon contest and Kansas City against Houston in a Monday night clash in Houston's Astrodome.

A pair of interleague contests with the NFL and a final interleague tussle game are also on the AFL schedule.

The New York Jets, still looking for more offensive punch, tangle with the Detroit Lions in the first game of a doubleheader at Cleveland on Saturday night while Miami takes on the Atlanta Falcons of the NFL in a Saturday night encounter in the Orange Bowl.

Defending AFL champion Oakland gets its final tussle test against lowly Denver in a game Saturday night at Portland, Ore.

The NFL has three exhibition games scheduled tonight with St. Louis at Chicago, San Francisco at Los Angeles and Minnesota against New Orleans at Shreveport, La.

In other NFL exhibition games on Saturday the Super Bowl champion Green Bay Packers meet the Cleveland Browns in the second game of the doubleheader at Cleveland; Baltimore visits Dallas in a night game; Pittsburgh and the Washington Redskins clash in a night contest at Norfolk, Va., and the Philadelphia Eagles and New York Giants tangle in a Saturday afternoon outing at Princeton, N.J.

A victory in one of the two remaining interleague games would give the AFL a winning edge in the pre-season series with the NFL. The AFL holds an 11-10 edge in games played in 1968 between the two leagues. Last year the NFL had a one-sided 13-3 advantage.

Brown considers his latest coaching assignment "possibly the biggest challenge of my career." His expansion Bengals compiled a 2-3 exhibition record.

The Chargers, with improvement in their defense, will be heavily favored over the Bengals who will likely have 13 rookies in the starting lineup, including former Tennessee scrambler Dewey (Swamp Rat) Warren.

Buffalo plans to start an all-rookie backfield against Boston with Dan Darragh, a former William and Mary player handling the quarterbacking. Darragh was the Bills' 13th draft choice. Max Anderson, a former Arizona State star who's at 180 pounds is one of pro football's smallest fullbacks and Buffalo's top running threat.

Houston, the Eastern Division favorite, and Kansas City of the West take identical 4-1 pre-season records into their Monday night battle in the Astrodome.

Tobyhanna readies 'controlled' room

TOBYHANNA—A new air-controlled room is being readied at Tobyhanna Army Depot.

When completed, it will house unique repair facility, in support of Autodin, the Army's worldwide digital message transmission network.

The Tobyhanna depot has been assigned the portion of the Autodin program known as the Depot Activity Plan. Designation was made by the United States Army Communications Systems Agency, the Department of Defense activity responsible for control and coordination of all overseas shipments of Autodin material.

In recent months, the depot has shipped more than 100 tons of assembly packages of installation hardware, repair parts, and major items of electro-mechanical project equipments to Autodin sites around the world.

The depot's current support plan calls for the receipt, storage, assembly and shipment of approximately 3,000 tons of Autodin equipment, both overseas and to stateside stations.

The soon-to-be-completed additional repair facility at Tobyhanna will be the only one of its kind in the Army.

Penn Central hearing set

TRENTON, N.J. — The State Commuter Operating Agency Wednesday announced that a public hearing on Penn Central commuter operations set for September 18 at 10 a.m. will be held in the State House Annex, Room 438.

The hearing, fourth in a series and the second to take testimony from railroad officials, previously was scheduled for the Cultural Center Auditorium. The COA is conducting the hearings as part of an overall investigation into the railroad's passenger service in New Jersey.

Zellner assumes duties

GETTYSBURG — Robert F. Zellner of East Stroudsburg has assumed his duties as instructor in music and director of bands at Gettysburg College.

Zellner, who had been teaching in the East Stroudsburg Area Schools for the last 12 years, met for the first time with the college's marching band Tuesday.

The college band meets a week before the regular opening of the college to practice routines for the coming football season.

He is a native of Nazareth, and received his elementary and secondary school education there.

In 1954, he was granted a B.S. degree in Music from West Chester State College, and an M.A. degree from Lehigh University in 1960.

While he was in East Stroudsburg, he was a member of the Pennsylvania Music Education Association and the Pennsylvania Bandmasters' Association. He also served as president of the Northeast District Pennsylvania Music Education Association and was Region II Chairman for the Pennsylvania Music Association. He is currently President of the Pennsylvania Chapter of Phi Beta Mu National School Bandmasters' Fraternity.

Zellner is married to the former Arlene Heckman of Allentown, Pa. They have two children: Kathy, age 12; and Gary, age 9.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Zellner of 22 Garden Terrace, Nazareth.

Labor Day accidents used blood; donors can fill bank Monday

STROUDSBURG — Howard Popkin, chairman of the Monroe County Red Cross blood program, Thursday described the accident toll on the nation's highways over the Labor Day weekend as "appalling."

"There were a record number of deaths and injuries," he said. "The statistics, however, do not show the vast amount of blood that was drawn from Red Cross blood banks to save the lives of the injured."

Popkin urged all healthy area residents, between 18 and 59 years of age, to donate to the Red Cross bloodmobile at the First Presbyterian Church, Main St., Stroudsburg, Monday, from 10:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.

"Blood is vital to life," he said. "Emergency blood needs are like automobile accidents or serious illness... they always seem to happen to someone else."

But they can happen to any of us. Every day, emergency blood needs for the ill and injured are filled through the Red Cross blood program."

DELICIE RICHARDS
completes study
RICHMOND, VA. — Delice E. Richards, of Stroudsburg RD 4, has received a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree from Richmond Professional Institute, now Virginia Commonwealth University.

Her major field was fashion design. She is a 1964 graduate of Stroud Union High School and is the daughter of Mrs. George W. Richards and the late George W. Richards.

Only one of the men is known by name to the police; Talmadge James, 40, height, five-foot five inches, weight, 150 pounds, wearing a white shirt, dark trousers, and cap.

The second man is six foot in height, about 200 pounds wearing a dark shirt and trousers and is red haired.

DUNMORE — State Police stations in the area are cooperating in the search for two "wanted" men believed to be traveling or hitch-hiking through Pennsylvania, heading towards Harrisburg or Baltimore, Md., according to John Meade, Scranton area agent, Federal Bureau of Investigation.

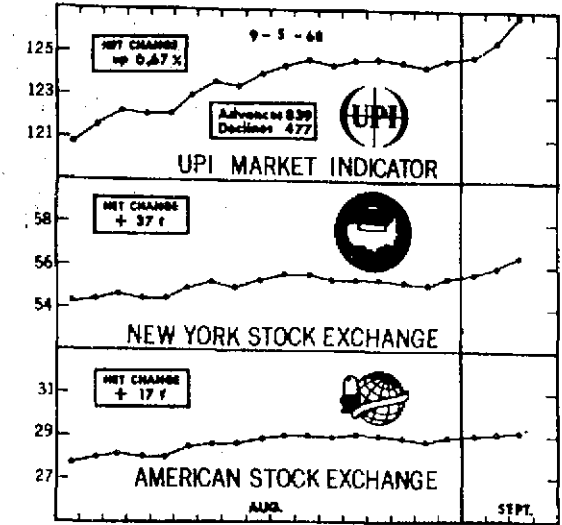

Meade said the two men were last seen Tuesday night in the Clarks Summit area. They are both migrant workers and are both white men, wanted for "unlawful flight."

Tickers run three minutes late

Gains biggest since

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stock prices scored one of their biggest gains since spring Thursday in brisk activity. Heavy buying near the final bell caused tickers to run three minutes late.

The UPI stock market indicator climbed 0.67 per cent on 1,542 issues traded. Advances outpaced declines 839 to 477.

There were 62 new highs set, 13 lows.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which reflects movement of 30 selected blue chips, was up 10.57 to 917.52. Rails and utilities also were on the upswing.

Much of the strong showing stemmed from a lack of depressing factors as well as from carryover strength from yesterday's session.

Among the 15 most active issues there were 13 gainers, only 2 losers.

Turnover aggregated 12,980,000 shares, nearly three million higher than the 10,040,000 traded Tuesday.

The New York Stock Exchange index showed a gain of 37 cents in the average common share price.

Of the 15 most active issues, the only losers were American Telephone—the nation's most widely held stock—and Texas Gulf Sulphur. AT&T, up sharply Tuesday and Wednesday on what was said to be heavy institutional buying, backed off 3/4 to 53 1/2 on 104,000-share volume. Texas Gulf eased 3/4 to 29 1/2 on 93,000 shares.

Top active issue was Livingstone Oil, up 1/4 to 14 1/4 on 189,900 shares.

Following was Avnet, up 1/4 to 36 1/4 on 161,500 and Brunswick rounded out the top three with 135,900 shares. It closed up 3/4 to 18 1/2.

Auto issues moved ahead following an industry report of record August sales. General Motors, Ford, Chrysler, American Motors and White Motor scored gains running to more than two points.

Steels were firm, with U.S. Steel the leading gainer at 4 1/4, up 1/4. It is generally believed that most of the industry's immediate problems are now behind them.

Loew's Theatres and Lorillard rose sharply to 10 1/4 and 6 1/4, respectively, increases of 1 1/2 and 2 1/4. Trading in the issues was halted temporarily after they announced an agreement in principle to merge, with Loew's splitting its stock 2-for-1.

Chemicals continued on the upswing, reflecting recent price increases announced by major firms. Du Pont was up 1 to 16 1/4, Dow, up 2 1/4 to 8 1/4 and Allied up 1 1/4 to 3 1/4.

Jim Walters gave ground after climbing in recent sessions. It dipped 3/4 to 9 1/4.

Addressograph—multigraph Corp. eased off following yesterday's sharp rise. The issue dipped 1/4 to 8 1/4.

Universal Oil Products paced the oils with a gain of 1/4 to 41 1/4. Texaco also scored a good gain, while other oils climbed fractionally.

Among the electronics Collins Radio advanced 3/4 to 66 1/4 as the company reported record earnings for fiscal 1968. In addition, Collins said it is starting a program offering computer services and computer-controlled process technology to industry and government. Other electronic issues were mostly on the upside.

Flying Tiger moved up 2 1/4 to 14 1/4 following its agreement to supply nine Lockheed Super-Hi Constellation aircraft to a newly formed Indonesian airline company.

In the metals, Anaconda was up 3/4 to 47 1/4, Reynolds gained 2 1/4 to 39. Other issues in the group also climbed but on a smaller scale.

HARRISBURG — The old saw "Why should I work if they take my earnings from my relief check?" isn't going to fit into the Pennsylvania scene anymore, according to the people in the Public Welfare Department.

Actually, for several years now relievers have been getting more and more in the way of earned income write-offs so that they could take part-time and in some cases low-paid full time work and still get relief checks if they had large families to support.

Now a new system has been adopted by welfare boss Dr. Thomas W. Georges Jr. to give the person on relief a little better shake if he has enough gumption to find part-time work. And in some cases, even if he doesn't look for work, the finger of "work incentive programs" may point him out to get on a job, or at least to get on a payroll in a training status.

The Public Welfare Department would have had to put the new incentive program into effect July 1, 1968, under federal law, to continue to get about half of the state's relief bill paid by Uncle Sam. But to fit in with a new work-training program being started by Labor and Industry Secretary John K. Tabor, and to take up some slack created when many antipaternity programs curtailed their generosity at the end of the 1967-68 fiscal year last July 1, Dr. Georges pushed the additional benefits up more than ten months and started the new way of figuring incentives Aug. 26.

Not for all recipients. Actually, the work incentive plan applies only to those on Aid to Dependent Children and General Assistance, for as a practical matter there are not too many wage earners among the disabled, the aged and the blind.

Of the 433,145 persons on relief last March (When the workers were counted), 5,824 were listed as non-handicapped, persons able to do a full day's work of one sort or another. Another 8,831 could do some work, but they were rated as handicapped.

Before the Aug. 26 change, the person on relief who worked and earned some money was allowed up to $30 a month, without having the additional income charged against the relief check. This was to cover work expenses such as additional food, transportation and clothing.

Now the first $30 of earned income, plus one-third of the remainder, in any one month, is the basis for allowing work incentives. At first blush this sounds like a worse deal than the flat $30, but actually it's better. That is because the figuring is on a net income, with all sorts of expenses "off the top" before the actual figure is reached.

Among the costs of working deducted in arriving at a net income are tools, materials, special uniforms, payroll deductions for taxes and social security over which the worker has no control, transportation costs to and from work and cost of care of children or sick or disabled members of the family "if care cannot be provided by the members of the family, and no other sound plan can be made to obtain the care without cost."

For example, as an example of how the new system works, take a family of six with a total allowance of $250 a month. An allowance is what the welfare people figure the family budget is under welfare rates, which run approximately 71 percent of what the department itself says is needed for "health and decency." This is slated to go to 90 percent January 1, 1969, although some politically-minded persons are talking about getting the increases before the magic election date in November.

Suppose the reliever earned $210 during the month, and the welfare people allowed him $30 for work expenses, bringing his net income to $180.

The first $30 of the $180 would be excused, leaving a balance of $150. Then one-third of the $150 would also be written-off as not chargeable to his relief check. This is $50, plus the original $30, making his total incentive deduction $80. The $80 is then added to the $30 in work expenses, so that a total of $110 is deducted from his gross income of $210, leaving $100 in "adjusted income" to be taken from his assistance check.

The check would have been $250 without any work. With work it is $150, but the $210 actually earned boosts the monthly income for the family of six-wages plus some relief—to $360.

so Pendleton.

From left: A. Tradition beautifully updated into pure virgin wools for today's city-country living. Authentic Irish Tartan semi-shaped shirtwaist dress, 35.00.
B. Gorgeously colored fashion blocks in the belted country suit, 70.00.
C. Rich pure wool for the kind of woman who thinks of fashion as an expression of her way of life. Here, Pendleton's Riding Suit, 60.00.
(lower right): D. Pendleton's Town and Country suit, an elegant ensemble in three pieces. A slim skirt, matching shell and a long, handsome walking coat, 90.00.

Second Floor

Pendleton Creates A Marvelous Wardrobe of Wool Fashions For Men . . . And For Women!

His Pendleton

Pendleton creates rugged, handsome wool fashions for the male. Richly toned virgin wool solids and deep plaids.
E. A casual wool shirt in subtle windowpane plaid for lounging or early fall strolls, 26.00.
F. Warmly lined with deep orlon pile, this great outerwear jacket adds a sense of fashion to the common sense of braving the cold. Deep, roomy pockets detail the front. Water repellent, also, 60.00.
G. A classic Pendleton plaid makes this shirt-jacket a popular choice to be worn over turtlenecks . . . at a football game or after-ski! Features two large chest, patch pockets and two deep slash pockets. 25.00. This style, water repellent.
